Reading Company Willing to Talk On Station Price

Reading company agreed Wednesday to submit its previous proposals to negotiation, it was announced, taking talks on the South Hanover street redevelopment project down a new path.

Borough Manager Joseph D. Banta said the next step would be "detailed negotiations" on the railroad's sale of its passenger and freight stations for the project.

The Reading previously had said it would not give up any of its facilities south of the railroad tracks, where the freight station and related facilities are located.

This area is planned as part of the project, designed to extend southward from High street to the Pennsylvania railroad line.

It was believed until Wednesday that the project might have to be halved—or even scuttled—in view of the Reading's refusal to part with any of its freight facilities.

BANTA SAID railroad spokesmen, at a meeting in borough hall, softened their position to provide for negotiation on the freight as well as passenger station.

Presumably, the Reading spokesmen also agreed to rescind the company's earlier proposal of renting a new passenger station for $1 a year.

Reading had said it would sell the existing station, on the north side of the tracks in the heart of the redevelopment area, provided a new station would be built and offered to the railroad at that modest rental.

"The meeting was very productive and fruitful," Banta said.

"We found out the Reading railroad is determining what facilities it needs," the borough manager added. "It appears possible that we may be able to get together and work this problem out."

BANTA SAID the Reading freight facilities would remain

PARKING SURVEY SET IN BOROUGH

Parkettes, Municipal Employes to Conduct Survey

Pottstown will undertake a survey today through Saturday to find out where motorists park and for how long.

Joseph D. Banta, the borough manager, said a crew of municipal employes will visit metered parking spaces at half hour intervals during meter operation times for the three day period.

"This will help us determine where new parking is needed," Banta said. "It should also tell us whether the time limits in various areas are proper."

Banta said seven persons and two alternates would carry out the survey from among the police department's parkettes and employes in the water, sewer, and engineering departments.

He said a similar survey was last made in 1959. The present one, he said, was being done in conjunction with a comprehensive development plan aided by federal funds.

Banta said the survey was being made under general auspices of the borough planning commission and would be analyzed by the Fels institute, a municipal research and planning group in Philadelphia.

The borough manager said members of the survey team would identify autos by the last three digits of their license numbers, so that it could be determined whether the same car was in the same space a half hour later.

He said the parkette force would continue as usual to ticket overtime parkers during the survey period.

Untimely Clouds Obscure Rare Meteor Shower

One of the most ill-timed cloudbanks in the lifetime of this generation of star-watchers obscured a spectacular meteor shower in the Pottstown area early this morning.

The three-hour "Leonid" shower occurs only once every 33⅓ years, and has been right on schedule ever since 585 A.D.

Such a magnificent show won't be repeated from the same source for another 33⅓ years, which means many adult amateur astronomers will never get another chance to see the display.

It was especially disheartening after four consecutive crystal clear mornings with just the thin sliver of a new moon in the sky.

BUT THE clouds began to build up late in the afternoon and formed a great murky cover early today when the falling stars were lighting the

SCHUYLKILL SURVEY IS STARTED

Team of Engineers Begins Check In Town

STATE FORCE PARTICIPATING

The long-awaited survey of the Schuylkill river at Pottstown was underway Wednesday.

A team of engineers and assistants from the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters is here to determine what can be done to end flooding and improve the channel and flow of the Schuylkill.

Samuel G. Morgan is chief of the survey party and Richard F. Fisher is chief of the survey for the division of flood control.

Crew members include Edward D. Bolton Jr., Philip C. Herbert and Williard C. Church.

THROUGH THE efforts of local and State officials, working with the strong editorial support of The Mercury, interest in a Schuylkill cleanup reached an alltime high pitch this Summer.

The Department of Forests and Waters was authorized by a special act of assembly to undertake a $50,000 survey on the Schuylkill between here and Norristown.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was granted $48,000 by the U.S. House of Representatives, through the efforts of Congressman Richard S. Schweiker, to run a concurrent study of its own.

Investigation by The Mercury revealed the big river cleanup in the early 1950s apparently skipped Pottstown completely.

Financial Crisis Hits Water Plant; Increase in Rates Expected in '67

The Pottstown water treatment plant, a scientific marvel and feat of modern technology, is suddenly in the grip of a grave financial crisis.

Water rates in the Pottstown water system area will probably be increased 5 to 10 percent next year, and this will only be a temporary measure.

The great problem to be overcome is that the $3.5 million filtration and softening plant in Stowe is only at one third of capacity.

More customers must be found at once, principally large industrial water users now tapping wells. Chief among these is Firestone Tire and Rubber company, but there are others.

BOROUGH Manager Joseph D. Banta, who was heartened somewhat Wednesday when the Pottstown Water authority agreed to assume "to the best of our ability" all future capital expenditures, made an analogy to the situation.

"It is something like a factory with a big investment to repay on three manufacturing machines, but it doesn't have enough business to keep more than one working," Banta said.

An immediate crisis cropped up with operating costs going $30,000 above expectations for 1965, but this is only one facet of the problem, Banta said.

The Water authority spent long hours going over a detailed report from the consulting engineers Wednesday and decided to accept two immediate recommendations.

It will seek to negotiate definite contracts with potential major users, and it agreed to cover capital expenditures to whatever extent possible.

The consultants, Albright and Friel, incorporated, Philadelphia, made the report with these other highlights:

- Revenues from water sales for 1965 were $72,840 short of meeting all expenditures and $1448 short of meeting the requirements of the lease.
- The lease agreement provides that if in any one year the amount collected from water rentals is less than the requirements "the borough will immediately enact an ordinance increasing, revising or otherwise adjusting the water rentals and charges so that the amount collected will meet these requirements.
- The deficit for 1966, based on actual expenditures for nine months and projections for the other three, will be about $52,000.
- Operating costs for 1966 are $30,000 above the

The song is over, but the knell of defeat lingers. Unsuccessful Democratic candidates are shown on posters at party campaign headquarters on South Hanover street.

Republican and Constitutional campaign headquarters have been cleaned up and vacated, but this one remains.

Some of the posters, which only slightly more than a week ago held for partisans the glimmer of prospective victory, begin to peel from window. Storefront reflection gives view of other side of the street.

WATER PLANT DEMOLITION BIDS OKAYED

Borough Authority Names Firm for Wrecking Work

Pottstown Borough authority accepted bids Wednesday for demolition and removal of the old water plant.

The apparent low bid came from Gleba brothers, a wrecking outfit from West Conshohocken. Its price was $9980.

Other companies among six others bidding for the demolition contract asked as much as $47,200 to do the job.

The water plant, in Stowe, has been replaced by a new and more modern plant.

The borough authority decided at its October meeting to have the old water plant removed, but to leave standing houses owned by the authority.

THE CONTRACT will specify that the recess left in the ground by removal of the old facility be filled by the contractor.

Family Follows Mrs. Bell's Wish To Aid Hospital

One of Mrs. Jeannette D. (Demmy) Bell's foremost requests prior to her death was to do something for the Pottstown Memorial Medical center, north division, which would express her gratitude for its tremendous care and treatment following a stroke which paralyzed her right side.

Mrs. Bell's confidence in physical therapy was evident because she made three trips a week to the department receiving a total of 890 treatments during her illness of nine years.

These treatments consisting of physiotherapy helped Mrs. Bell to enjoy a comfortable life despite her handicap.

Mrs. Bell, Franklin apartments, who was dead on arrival Tuesday at the north division hospital, had expressed to her family during the years of her stroke, that at her death in lieu of flowers that money should be sent to the hospital's physical therapy department in her name.

Henry Bell Jr., a son from Brookside Center, Conn. said "We're asking in our mother's name that no flowers be sent, but instead that the money be contributed to the physical therapy department at the north division.

"She really wanted this most of all, because they did her a world of good during her visits to the department.

"She also felt that she owed a lot to the hospital and especially to Dorothy Burns, head of the physical therapy

Good Morning

When in doubt, do the friendliest thing.

Chance Meeting Leads to Strong, Lasting Friendship Between Men

It all started when Robert E. L. DeMuth drove his Nash six cylinder into the Sunset garage on West Ridge pike in Limerick on a bright Fall day in 1929.

William March, then 27, was the mechanic on duty, and he impressed the older man on this first and subsequent visits with his friendly manner and quick skill in fixing whatever was ailing the Nash.

On Wednesday, 37 years later, Robert DeMuth entered Pottstown Medical center, east division.

At 91 he was still spry and cheerful, but he hadn't eaten anything in three days. He was ill.

And there to drive him to the hospital was William March, retired himself now at 64, and a faithful friend ever since that first Autumn meeting.

MARCH RETIRED from the Keystone Drawn Steel company, Spring City, in 1962.

He lives on West Ridge pike near the Sunset garage, now in its 42d year, and two miles up the pike from the Trappe home of Mrs. Pauline Duffy where DeMuth resides.

In the years after their first meeting DeMuth traveled in most of the 50 states as a construction engineer, working mostly on federal projects.

He had a hand in the renovation of Washington DC during the thirties and forties, helping to plan such structures as the National Gallery of Art and the Pentagon. He was involved in the building of the US Postoffice at Philadelphia.

When, in his later years, DeMuth moved into the Duffy place, March was retired himself, and most every day went down the road to visit with his old friend for an hour or two.

But DeMuth was by no means an invalid. He did consulting work into his 80s, and

$300 Could Mean A Grand Holiday

With Thanksgiving a week away you have a chance to not only treat your family to a traditional dinner, but to season the day with champagne.

All this can be accomplished by signing up for the Lucky Barrel drawing today before 5 p.m. at Russells Women's apparel, 261 High street.

If your name is drawn from the barrel and you've registered, the Downtown Pottstown Business association will present you with a check for $300.

Local GI Safe After War Duty

A local GI who was a "flying mechanic" on 25 helicopter missions arrived home Tuesday from Viet Nam and all's right with the world.

Sp/4 Ronald Moyer, 20, says that all he wanted from the 361 days duty was to do his job and get home safely to 106 South Franklin street.

Because even when Moyer wasn't aboard the vulnerable copter, life was not too pleasant.

Moyer, the son of Mrs. Susan Moyer, recalls that during the weeks-long missions sleeping on a real bed was not something he could count on, and the only diet was C rations.

Though his duty was on flights into regions supposedly cleared by troops, Moyer knew that "over there, you really never could tell." His home base was Pleiku from November to June, and Da Nang, the months since June.

The constant pressure begins to tell on the men and sometimes "morale is not too high," he explained.

"Then when you go into the cities to relax and have some fun, the Vietnamese shopkeepers try to take you for all you're worth." Moyer learned his lesson and warned other young men to watch out for trinkets sup-

Waitress Serves Happiness Menu; Ex-Boxer Downs Gloom With Smiles

MRS. THELMA SNYDER

All grumpy Pottstonians watch out.

Smiling is contagious, and it's spreading like wildfire through the downtown.

Despite the hard job of the Pottstown Optimist club judges since the smile bug started to bite, two more winners were named Wednesday.

Albert Melchiorre, assistant manager of Adams Clothes, 230 High street, and Mrs. Thelma Snyder, a waitress at the Hotel Shuler, 138 High street, are the beaming smile champs.

Melchiorre, a former professional boxer, now has another trophy to add to his collection, and Mrs. Snyder will no longer be skeptical about contests.

"I wasn't doing anything special for this week," said Melchiorre, who has been with Adams for the 10 years it's been in town. "I always smile. I guess it's my nature."

And he beamed.

You Can Show Yule Spirit With Gift for Bundles

Holiday spirit is already beginning to show in the Pottstown area. How do you tell — by the response of countless unknown persons who dropped their small change into the Bundles for Buddies cans.

Wednesday the small change totaled $17.91. This and the $9 given by individuals gave Wednesday a collection of $26.91. The money is used to continue the year long flow of hometown news to servicemen stationed in Viet Nam and Korea.

Since The Mercury's campaign began the number of local men fighting in those countries has grown. All servicemen will deeply appreciate your thinking of them during the holidays when they receive their hometown newspaper.

BUT ALWAYS WRITES

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Army Sgt. Roy C. Register writes home from Viet Nam almost every day, even when he's faced with a paper shortage.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Register received the latest word from their son, 21, on a makeshift postcard made from a C-ration carton and written while he was on combat patrol.

He had drawn lines on one side for his message and lines on the other side to write in the address.

LYRICIST MARRIES

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Alan Jay Lerner, 48, lyricist of "My Fair Lady," "Camelot" and "Brigadoon," was married Tuesday to Karen Gunderson, an assistant editor of Newsweek magazine, friends said.

The only witnesses were the 31-year-old bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sven M. Gunderson of Hanover, N.H.

Lerner also wrote the screenplays and lyrics for the movies, "Gigi" and "An American in Paris."

The couple will live in New York, friends said.

Stowe GI Feels Sympathy For Poor Viet Nam People

It will not be easy for Anthony Cellucci, a soldier from Stowe, to forget this Thanksgiving. It will be almost a year since he arrived in Viet Nam.

In this time he has learned to ignore "the snakes in the rice paddies and in the jungle" and concentrate on the job at hand.

Sp/5 Cellucci wrote to The Mercury in thanks for his weekly bundles of the papers, which he has received through public donations. The soldier, who works on building homes for the Vietnamese, said he was "proud to be able to sit down to write."

Cellucci is one of the 170 servicemen stationed overseas who can be sent cards and gifts by area wellwishers. Their names appear in each day's edition of The Mercury.

All that you do is address the package or letter with the man's name and serial number, and "c/o The Mercury, Pottstown, Pa." Leave the letter unsealed so that the staff can check for crank messages. If you are sending a package have it weighed and the postage attached.

The Mercury will put the complete military address on each item.

CELLUCCI, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Cellucci, 504 Fairview street, Stowe, reported on the hardships and strain he and his buddies endure in Viet Nam.

SP/5 ANTHONY CELLUCCI

Yet, he says he has seen a lot of Viet Nam, "from Cam Ranh Bay to Pleiku and back down again," and never fails to feel sympathy with the native people.

"Most of their food is what they get from Army dumps. As for clothes there are many children here without clothes. Many of the houses are made from tin cans."

It was nearly as hard on the soldiers when they first arrived, Cellucci adds. "I went without real sleep for weeks on end, but it was a job we were called on to do for a country that needed help. The U.S. Army is giving them the help."

The local soldier said that U.S. faith in the people has paid off.

"We showed them how to build better houses and other ways of living better and they DO help us when we are under fire in a mission."

Cellucci has hopes of returning to the U.S. before Christmas, so that he can be reunited with a wife, Jacqueline and four daughters, now living at Ayer, Massachusetts.

"My orders call for me to be leaving before Dec. 20 One of the biggest things getting home will mean is a good night's sleep without worrying if the camp is going to be bombed or what."

Enduring character is not built with inferior materials. —(Babson)

Compounding Confusion

IF NOTHING else, the two year, $2.5 million study of the food industry by the National Commission on Food Marketing will go down in history as one of the most bewildering investigatory performances ever to appear on the public scene.

Many of its conclusions are based on the erroneous premise that there is undue and growing concentration in the food marketing industry and that competition is not an effective regulator.

On these subjects, the minority report of the commission says, in regard to the ease of entry into the food retailing business, "It is one of the most dramatic features of the industry. Entry into the market is not encumbered by any potential technology, secret know-how, or substantial product differentiation."

A case history is cited of a food retailer who opened up in 1959 with an investment of $21,000 and wound up six years later with 30 stores doing nearly $115 million in anunal sales.

As an official of a large food chain store asserts, "We are disappointed at the failure of the commission to tell us what we think we deserve to hear about our industry.

"We believe the record calls or a more favorable appraisal. We recognize those economic, social, and political factors that subject us to continued scrutiny. So will it ever be because the efficient and responsible performance of our industry is vital to our country."

Age Of Miracles—Or Red Tape

DURING coming months, under recently-enacted regulatory legislation, thousands of drugs are to be reevaluated as to their effectiveness by the Food and Drug administration. This reevaluation may be necessary, but it should be accomplished with as little disruption to the drug industry as possible.

There are strong indications that excessive regulation has slowed research and development of new drugs. Ironically, if the major drug firms had rested on their laurels with the marketing of the aspirin, there would have been nothing to regulate — and people would still have been enduring maladies that are now virtually nonexistent.

The problem of the drug industry today is aptly described by a prominent medical writer.

He comments: "The increasing complexity of drugs, as well as the growing sophistication of science in general, stimulated a trend toward more systematized evaluation of techniques. The danger, however, is that the pendulum may swing too far in this direction under the stimulus of public demand for perfect drugs and the government's increasing involvement in the evaluation process. This could impede the very research that produces golden ages in discovery."

It is impossible for the layman to follow the intricate processes of regulation that are being applied to the drug industry. However, he knows he does not wish to go back to the pre-miracle drug days of some 30 years ago, and he cannot help but wonder whether the next 30 years will be a golden age of discovery or a morass of regulation.

Communist Unity

NOT enough Pottstonians are aware that top communist leaders from 82 countries throughout the world met in Havana last January to plan the communist conquest of the world.

The principal techniques to be used are "people's wars of liberation." Africa, Asia and Latin America are the areas to be attacked through this means, as soon as possible.

There is no difference of opinion between Russia and red China on that score, and they will work together toward that end. The chairman of the Soviet delegation said:

"The Soviet delegation came to this conference to promote in every conceivable way the unity of anti - imperialist forces . . . so as to unfold on a still greater scale our common struggle against imperialism, colonialism, neo - colonialism, headed by the United States capitalists."

The chairman of the red Chinese delegation seconded the motion in these words:

"As the U.S. imperialists frenziedly suppress the national liberation movement by armed force, the people of Asia, Africa and Latin America have realized ever more clearly that the most effective weapon to defeat US imperialism and all reactionaries and to win liberation is to use revolutionary violence and wage people's wars against wars of aggression and armed suppression by all US imperialism and its lackeys."

It should be noted that the delegation to the conference which was given unlimited time to speak was the delegation from the Vietcong.

Grampaw Oakley

PUNKIN CORNERS,
November 16.

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where on a recent weekend 200 ancient autos (all pre-1904 models) staged a 55-mile parade and snarled traffic completely from London to the English coast. It was the best (or worst?) display of Sunday driving in many years.

Commercials on Brazil's radio are now limited to 15 minutes in the hour. THAT is an improvement?!

And say: There was the fellow who courted and wed an interior decorator because he thought that term meant she was a mighty fine cook!

Hopin' you air the same,

Buck Ends Here

To the Editor: There is a growing inclination to get to the end of the pass the buck line by blaming the farmers for high food prices. This is wrong. The Federal government investigators found that farmers, processors and retailers all shared in the increase. Farmers got about half the boost in milk prices, about a third in bread.

In the case of bread, the commission noted that bakers had been operating on slim margins before the recent price rises. It suggested that retail competition and consumer resistance might bring those prcies down a bit.

In the case of milk, the FTC said prices paid to farmers had been depressed for a decade. The resulting exodus of producers from dairying eventually brought supply and demand into better balance, with upward pressure on prices.

There is a tendency to "blame" farmers when food costs rise. Farmers, save in rare instances, don't set the prices for what they grow. They respond to demand and the price level by producing more or less, but that reaction usually doesn't have immediate effect.

A food chain spokesman said inflation was the main cause of the price rises. He is partly right—that and the growing demand abroad, both as dollar exports and as food for peace.

In any event, the farmer finally is beginning to catch up with the rest of the nation in a fair return for his labor. But now the prices he receives seem to be leveling off while inflation continues to push up the costs of items he must buy.

Chester County FARMER

Modern Gangsters

To the Editor: Not too many years ago the big cities were known as a hangout for gangsters. These men got and hung on to their wealth by exploiting, intimidating and killing, if necessary, innocent people. Any serious rivalry meant war.

All that is old hat now; modern day gangsters are respectable, have turned patriotic and their territories are international.

They still make their wealth by force of arms—whether it be the actual manufacturing of war material, or the follow-up of food, medicine, etc.

The taxpayers in this country pay for it and the little people of Viet Nam and elsewhere die for it. But the war and their swelling profits must go on; no police force is strong enough to stop it.

When will humanity ever realize that a decent life for all will only come by sharing what the world has to offer and that peace will only come by breaking the strangle-hold of great and ambitious wealth?

Mont Clare PRAYERS FOR PEACE

UNICEF Clarification

To the Editor: In a letter Oct. 31, William A. Nelson made a few specific charges against the Nobel peace prize-winning United Nations children's fund. An opportunity to examine them would be appreciated.

1) According to Nelson, the "official language of UNICEF is Russian."

UNICEF has no official language. As an agency of the United Nations, its work is done in the UN's five official languages: English, French, Spanish, Russian and Chinese.

2) Nelson believes that UNICEF "hands out money and food in Russia."

Russia has never requested or received any aid from UNICEF.

3) Nelson stated that monies contributed to UNICEF "will be sent to the heads of governments."

UNICEF's aid is not given in the form of cash, but rather as supplies, medicines, equipment, tools and all other implements needed for long-range programs benefiting needy children and mothers.

4) Nelsons' thoughts that communist countries are among the main beneficiaries of UNICEF's aid.

Since 1951, less than 2½ percent of UNICEF's worldwide allocations has gone to such countries.

Comprehensive documentation on UNICEF is available from us.

Automatic Solution

To the Editor: The ultimate in automation will be reached when we replace our leaders with machines.

We can feed these machines our problems and be assured of unbiased reaction.

Pottstown PHIL ANDER

Up and Up and Up

To the Editor: The brazen political opportunism displayed by President Johnson in announcing at this time a planned 10 per cent increase in social security benefits next year is only slightly more dismaying than the speed with which the Republicans jumped on this bandwagon.

In 1937 the maximum tax was $30 a year. In 1967 it will be $290.40. With no further politically inspired increases it will shortly reach $372.90 per year, per worker.

It is naive to hope that any politician will close the lid on this pandora's box by suggesting that the administration of social security be placed in the non-political hands of a board of governors, simliar to the Federal reserve board, answerable only to the science of sound economics.

Those who have been paying in for years and those who may expect to do so for the future have the right to expect the same security for this insurance investment as they would for any other purchased from a private company.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

MAX F., aged 36, has a family of 5 children.

"Dr. Crane," he began, as I was riding in his taxicab recently, "I drive this cab to supplement my wages. For I am a butcher in a super market.

"But I need more money to support my large family and also meet the constantly rising deductions from my pay check. For we can't live on my weekly wages from the store.

"Either my wife must get a job or I must do moonlighting. "Since two of our children aren't even old enough for kindergarten, I prefer to handle two jobs and let my wife stay at home.

"But what gripes me and the other cab drivers, is the patronage we get from families on relief.

"They will actually call a taxi just to go down to the super market a few blocks away!

"And then they routinely shove a new $20 bill at us. We wonder where these welfare cases get so many new $20 bills.

"And another thing which annoys taxi drivers is the fact that these shiftless folks want to put on airs.

"For example, when you came up to my cab, you opened the rear door and stuck your suitcase inside, without my help. And that is typical of the usual taxicab passenger.

"But not these relief patrons!

"They make us drivers hop out and run around to open the rear door for them! Imagine such nerve!

"For it's our taxes they are spending to ritz their neighbors!"

THROUGHOUT OUR early national life, we always tried to help those who were in dire need, such as the sick and orphans.

Even so, there was a certain amount of distaste at being a recipient of such community charity.

So those who received such public aid usually wanted to get back into a job.

And this was the wholesome psychology that made us the greatest nation on earth.

Then a subtle change occurred.

Not only did we begin to grow maudlin in our sentimentality for the indigent, but we let them develop the bad psychology that they were fully enitled to lifelong indolence at the taxpayers' expense.

Tv in Review

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

THE "CBS REPORTS" program, The State of the Unions, Tuesday night took a long, balanced look at the labor movement, pointing out its great contributions over the years—elimination of child labor, increased wages and reduced working hours, vacations, relief time, job seniority and pensions. It considered the bloody strife of the organizing years when unions were resisted violently by management.

The program contrasted those struggles with the situation today when union power has grown to a point where "one union can bring most of the nation's airlines to a halt with hardly any more reprisal that a growl from Congress."

Writer Joseph Wershba said in his script that unions "have entered the so-called age of affluence," and the pictures reflected their wealth in real estate as well as in the parked cars around plants where their members are employed.

Current union problems were not ignored — automation, loss of jobs, alienation of public opinion, hostile legislation. The program noted that of a work force of 77 million Americans, only 17 million belong to unions.

TOUCHED upon were charges of corruption in some unions and charges of failure to integrate racially. Herbert Hill of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said that "the rate of racial integration in the major skilled craft unions of the AFL-CIO is slower than the rate of integration of Negro children into the public schools of Mississippi and Alabama."

Most interesting was the portion devoted to showing the struggle over the past year to form a union for migrant agricultural workers in the West—a little union without the professional skills of the giants, but with all the fire and earnestness that marked the early years of the auto workers and the steel workers.

It was an extremely effective presentation, well-balanced, that crowded a lot into a short period.

GOP Starts Drive For Rule Changes

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
AP Washington Observer

House Republicans started a drive Wednesday for major changes in House rules and for more representation on House committees in line with their resurgence at the polls.

The objectives were discussed informally Tuesday at the first meeting of party leaders since the Republicans gained 47 House seats in last week's elections. They will be spelled out in more detail and probably expanded at a later meeting.

Minority Leader Gerald R Ford of Michigan, who will be chief of the 187 Republicans in the House convening Jan. 10, said he expects no trouble when the GOP leaders meet with Democratic leaders next month to work out the party ratio on committees.

The committee ratio in the present House is two to one or better in favor of Democrats who now outnumber Republicans in the House by that margin. In the new House, Democrats will have an edge of about four to three over Republicans. Republicans apparently are willing to settle for a three-to-two ratio on committee assignments.

"I don't think there will be any problem getting a three-to-two ratio," Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of House Republican Conference said in an interview.

"We certainly should get at least three to two," said Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee.

That ratio would give Republicans and conservative Democrats voting control in several major committees. What the final figure will be will be decided by the Democrats.

While there is no law or rule governing the matter, traditionally the committee ratio follows the party division in the House itself.

Laird said Republicans also will insist on some "fair play" changes in the House rules.

Specifically, he said the minority should have half of the time allowed to debate conference reports which are final compromise versions of bills passed by the Senate and the House. The entire time, usually one hour, now is controlled by the majority, which can use it all or allot some of it to the minority.

If the 21-day rule is retained, Larid said, it should be changed to allow the top Republican on a committee to call up for House action bills approved by his committee but blocked by the Rules Committee. The rule was adopted two years ago over Republican opposition and was designed to curb the power of the Rules Committee. It now allows the chairman of a legislative committee to call up of bill blocked for 20 days by the Rules group.

There is general expectation that the rule will be junked next year because Democrats will have a tighter grip on the Rules Committee.

Rhodes said flatly, "The 21-day rule is dead."

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Holiday Time Thoughts . . . Your Big Chance . . .

★ THANKSGIVING—How swiftly the years and the seasons pass! That may be the tritest of truisms, but it is one that frequently enters the minds of all of us. Probably it is felt with the greatest weight each Fall and Winter, as the holiday season approaches. Now another Thanksgiving is almost here. This, with the Fourth of July, is the most thoroughly American of all our holidays. It celebrates the very beginnings of this nation. When properly observed, it honors the courage, skills and dedication of long-gone men and women who faced and conquered dangers and difficulties of an unbelievable scope. This is a year of plenty. Most dinner tables will be piled high with the traditional Thanksgiving feast. There will be, inevitably, an emphasis on the material aspects of the day. Speakers will dwell on the abundance that is known so generally throughout the land. But abundance is not enough. The strength of peoples and powers lies in the qualities possessed by those who celebrated the first Thanksgiving—independence, a profound sense of individual responsibiilty, a deep spiritual belief, and dedication to freedom for all. This is what we should remember Thanksgiving day—and every other day of the year.

LETTER — A 14-year-old school girl writes: "To me Thanksgiving is not just when you sit down at the table covered with food. The important part is when you say the prayer before you eat. Then think about the kids overseas who are so happy because they have a piece of bread to eat. They also give their thanks to God because He is the one who makes is possible for them to have even that small amount of food. You should think about the young boys in Viet Nam who are fighting for us and our freedom while we are eating, laughing and joking around. When you sit down at your table for your Thanksgiving dinner, and before you reach all hands out for the fine food on the table you should think of the blessings that are yours in Pottstown."

★ BENEFACTORS—Bill and Tammy Woodley, Sanatoga, spent $14 for Christmas cards and postage to mail to GIs listed in The Mercury. They received a reply, their first, from one Sp/5 Roger A. Goodwin. Goodwin told the Woodleys it is 110 degrees in Viet Nam, and that it's going to be a "very lonely Christmas." Says he's a truck driver in service and drives all over Viet Nam. Goodwin says Vietnamese people want to be free, "and as long as we are here, they will be." The serviceman also says, "We read a lot about the people back home protesting about Viet Nam. If these people would come over here, and see what we are doing, I think they would change their minds." Goodwin apologized for not sending Woodleys a Christmas card, but says he is not able to obtain any where he is. His note was signed, "A Homesick GI." Tammy says she will send cookies or such to all the servicemen who reply to her Christmas message.

PURCHASE — A white stucco, black-shuttered house at 940 North Evans street, recently vacated by the Rev. L. Samuel Krouse, has been bought by Philip C. (Pete) Lang. The Langs are happy, for their three children's sake, about the dozen lovely shade trees and the spacious enclosed back yard. The house, built years ago by Pottstown builder Sam Brown, numbers a screened-in porch among its 10 rooms. Lang bought the house from the Emmanuel Lutheran church after Associate Pastor Krouse left to lead a parish in Northeast Philadelphia. His departure broke up one of the few father-son Lutheran pastorates in the country. Dr. Luther A. Krouse is pastor of the large (2500 member) church.

★ OPPORTUNITY — Any American citizen with a pretty good size fortune of his own can parlay it into some really big money if he doesn't mind being adopted by an elderly French lady and fighting off the heirs to her estate. According to the "Insider's Newsletter", the widowed and childless Marquise de Beauregard, 80, has asked the US embassy in Paris to find her an American to adopt. This person, she said, would inherit her extensive holdings in the south of France as well as a mansion and other property in Paris. The Marquise explained that she wanted a well-to-do American citizen between the ages of 30 and 50. He would have to have some money of his own because the heir to her estate would probably have to fight the distant relatives who are bound to contest her will. The newsletter says the embassy reports the request has been "passed along to the State department." . . . GIVE AWAY DEP'T: Male puppy, Carl Poper, 807 Glasgow st., 323-1663 . . . WATER PLANT DEMOLITION BIDS OKAYED of Gleba brothers the company would be notified after study of its bid.

He referred the bid to Joseph D. Banta, the borough manager, and C. Edmund Wells, the authority's solicitor, for review.

Wells was represented at the meeting by Henry T. Crocker, a member of his law firm.

Other bids were Morello Excavating company, $27,900; Miller and Brown, $14,874; Keystone Conservation service, $47,200, Mayer Pollock, $15,000; A. N. Lashner, $28,000, and Marvin C. Miller, $12,000.

The borough authority also:

—Deferred action on the North Coventry water agreement until getting official word from the township.

—Heard from Romeo A. Falciani, consultant, that the new water plant "is now settling down to normal operation" despite unanticipated added expense.

—Was advised by Banta that water rates may have to rise to cover a deficit.

—Listened to Falciani say "there is no question" but that some kind of cover be built for the reservoir.

Banta displayed a recording he said was given to him by Dr. George E. Halteman, a local chiropracter, entitled "The Case Against Fluoridation." He said he would play the record.

Councilman Bernard S. Verbit denied he had "brushed off" a proponent from the State Department of Health at the council meeting this week.

"I told him we had other problems we thought were more important," Verbit said.

Robert E. McKinney Jr., a member of the authority, said he found two years ago, when he was borough manager, that the "overwhelming majority" of the county's water supplies were fluoridated.

Falciani said he thought fluoridation was a good idea.

GOP AREA ONE TO TAKE PART IN DINNER

Victory Fete Scheduled In Local Maria Assunta

The big Republican "Victory Dinner" at Maria Assunta lodge in Pottstown Dec. 7 is being expanded to include the GOP's "Area One," the remainder of the 146th Assembly district.

Raymond J. Broderick, lieutenant governor-elect, will be the principal speaker as the GOP salutes its workers for their efforts in producing a big victory Nov. 8.

William J. Boden Sr., chairman of Pottstown and the Pottsgroves (Area Two) said he has extended the invitation to Kenneth H. Deloplaine, chairman of Area One.

The committeemen and committee women of Deloplaine's area, which also turned in a good Republican showing, are from nine communities.

These include East Greenville, Pennsburg, Red Hill, Green Lane, and New Hanover, Douglass, Upper Frederick, Marlborough and Upper Hanover townships.

This area along with Boden's comprises the 146th Assembly district. It has 146 committee people who will be feted at the dinner.

Broderick ran ahead of other State candidates in the district election, indicating a popularity for the Philadelphia lawyer and former Plymouth township commissioner.

Governor-elect Raymond P. Shafer Wednesday displayed his confidence in Broderick by appointing him to head a special committee to draft a new State constitution.

First You Must 'Sin'

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. A. T. Dinwiddie asked her Sunday School class what "you must do before you obtain forgiveness of sin."

There was a pause. Finally one 6-year-old timidly held up his hand and said: "Sin."

Uniform Visiting Hours Set at Medical Center

A schedule of visiting hours that will make for uniformity at both the East and North divisions of the Pottstown Memorial Medical center was announced Wednesday.

Albert P. Pollick, administrator, said these hours and restrictions would be effective today:

ALL ROOMS in medical and surgiccal departments, including private rooms: 12 noon to 8:30 p.m. daily. Children under 12 not permitted.

MATERNITY WARDS: 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.; 3 to 5 p.m., and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Visitors restricted to father and grandparents.

PEDIATRICS (children's wards): 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., and 6:30 to 8 p.m. Open only to parents and grandparents.

Congressman Will Speak At Mental Health Fete

Richard S. Schweiker, Congressman from Pennsylvania, will be among the speakers for the dinner honoring past and present board members of the Pottstown Mental Health center.

The tribute dinner will take place Wednesday, Nov. 30 at Brookside Country club at 7 p.m.

Other guest speakers will be Dr. L. A. Potkonski, superintendent of Pennhurst State school, and Mrs. Jack Robns, board of directors, Southeastern Pennsylvania Mental Health association.

Dr. Brower B. Yerger Jr., program chairman said, "A large measure of credit for the center's success must be given to the citizens who have donated much of their time and energies as board members during the growing years.

"At this dinner," he said, "certificates of recognition for their service on the board of directors will be presented to the past board members."

He also said, "The current wave of favorable legislation towards mental health illness vividly portrays the foresightedness of the local citizens who first began the Pottstown center in May of 1957.

"Although mental health still remains as our nation's leading health problem, the tide to stem the problem is definitely beginning to turn.

"More mentally-ill patients are recovering and more communities such as Pottstown are providing facilities for early detection, early treatment and rehabilitation.

"The plight of the nearby Pennhurst School and the fact that throughout the entire United States there are only 1600 clinics similar to the Pottstown clinic illustrates the tremendous task that remains.

"Just eight years ago, the Pottstown Mental center opened its door on a limited schedule with a parttime staff. As local residents became increasingly aware of the need of such facilities, due in part to the number of patients requesting assistance, the clinic was able to grow until today, its staff includes several fulltime workers, including a medical director.

"The Pottstown Area Mental Health center is a highly specialized facility in which a team of skilled professionals work towards the prevention of mental and emotional illness.

"Treatment is tailored to meet the individual's needs. From the time the center opened its door until 1965, 1100 individuals and their families have been treated."

Assisting Dr. Brower will be Mrs. Ellen Guinee and Howard Diffenderfer, chairman of the board.

Automotive Firms Report Break-ins

Break-ins occurred Wednesday at two Boyertown area automotive firms, police reported.

Three dollars in change was pried from a soda machine and $20 removed from the petty cash drawer at the Heller Body shop, Second and Chestnut streets, Boyertown, Chief Henry Groff reported. Entrance was gained by forcing a door. Sgt. William Hoffman investigated.

A thief who entered Quigley Motors on Route 100 North, Colebrookdale, was routed by a blaring horn and bell alarm in the firm's main office. He fled empty handed, Chief Jacob Coveleski said. The thief gained entrance by breaking a garage door window.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION INCREASES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production, paced by sharply increased automobile output, resumed its upward climb during October following a slight decline the previous month.

In reporting this Wednesday, the Federal Reserve Board said the output of the nation's mines, mills and factories rose to a record 158.6 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This was five-tenths of a point above the September level.

In its national summary of business conditions, the board said both industrial production and nonfarm employment rose during October. Retail sales changed little while construction activity declined further.

Industrial prices remained stable while food prices declined, the board noted. Bank credit and the money supply also dropped.

Between mid-October and mid-November yields on government, corporate and municipal securities dropped and then advanced but over-all were little changed, the board said.

Prices of common stocks increased during the period.

Production of auto assemblies rose sharply during October to 178 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This compared with an index level of 148.6 during September.

Automobile production schedules for November, the board said, were fixed at roughly the October level.

The output of furniture and some household appliances declined during October but that of nondurable consumer goods was unchanged. Output of industrial and commercial equipment was up.

The board said iron and steel production and output of construction materials declined while equipment parts were unchanged. The output of textile mill products has been declining since June and is now 4 per cent below its peak, the board added.

During September, the industrial production index dropped for the first time in a year and at the end of the month totaled 158.1 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Auto Industry Isn't Concerned About Slowdown

DETROIT (AP) — "Nobody is singing the blues around here. Things are still pretty good."

Those were the sentiments of cigar-smoking Lee A. Iacocca on Wednesday when asked how he felt about a slowdown in new car sales.

The answer by Iacocca, group vice president of Ford Motor Co., pretty well summed up the feelings of the auto industry's top executives.

"We know full well we are running behind the industry's 1965 sales record but this still winds up as the second-best year in automotive history and there is nothing to get alarmed about," he said.

Sales reports from the four auto companies Tuesday showed that early November deliveries of 1967 cars ran about five per cent behind a year ago. The month of October trailed October 1965, by about the same margin.

The auto industry, which had become used to use of superlatives in describing its sales accomplishments, found it hard in recent weeks to adjust itself to reporting less than record sales.

Heads of all four auto companies have indicated belief that 1966 auto sales would wind up short of the record 9.3 million cars, including some 500,000 imports, sold in the U.S. market last year. Most guesses figured this would be a nine million sales year.

Some sources have put part of the blame for the sales lag on the auto safety issue. They said that some customers, aware that the federal government would add more safety standards in 1968 models, would remain out of the market until then.

E. M. (Pete) Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of its Chevrolet Division, said he saw little likelihood of such a buying holdback. "We are putting safety items on our cars just as fast as they become available and there is no reason for any buyer to put off his decision until 1968," he said in an interview.

Iacocca said of current car sales, "There is a pause in the market but it is nothing serious. There is uncertainty about a tax increase and about the Viet Nam war."

Iacocca pointed out that one of the unusual things about the 1967 model sales to date is that while fewer cars have been sold, customers have been digging deeper into their pocketbooks.

This was due partly to an increase in car prices because of addition of safety items this year, but he said, "even more, we are seeing a record demand for top-of-the-line cars and for optional equipment items."

Dealer sales reports indicated that the glamorous, sporty cars — such as Mustang, Camaro and Cougar — were doing well in the public eye but that some weakness had been noted in demand for compacts and for standard-sized sedans.

They are putting together the framework of the UAW's contract demands on the auto industry in 1967 and Reuther has indicated already he will seek substantial boosts for skilled workers and production workers.

It was significant that even as the UAW leaders were in session, General Motors President James M. Roche came up with his second warning in recent weeks about the necessity to avoid inflationary settlements.

Roche said in a Dayton, Ohio, speech Tuesday, "Inflationary trends have become evident. This problem would be intensified if uneconomic settlements were to be forced in next year's labor negotiations."

Financial Crisis Hits Water Plant; Increase in Rates Expected in '67

budget and capital expenditures of $22,000 came out of water earnings.

● Had the new plant been in operation since the first of the year, the loss would work out to $79,000 for the entire year.

ALBRIGHT and Friel also submitted explanations for the increase in costs over what they said in 1963 could be expected this year.

The hardness of the water in the Schuylkill has never been below a level of "240 parts per million" since April, which far exceeds expectations that this would occur only 15 percent of the time. So chemical costs are up $20,000 over estimates.

Cost of labor has exceeded projections by $17,000, because of work on capital extensions of the system and raises since 1963. If a utilities manager is hired for 1967, it will go up at least $5000 more based on half his salary being billed to the water operation.

There has been an overrun of $13,900 on insurance and pension costs, power costs are up $7500, and maintenance was expected to cost less because of almost an entirely replaced or cleaned system—but it didn't.

Increased interest rates at the time of the bond sale meant an added $7000 a year to the debt reduction requirements.

Finally, in 1963 no action was taken to adjust the rates due to developing expense increases because it was believed Firestone Tire and Rubber would connect immediately. Due to preoccupation with other expansion and other unknown reasons, Firestone never signed the agreement as expected. The borough has not been experiencing $24,000 a year expected revenue from this source.

FARM DEBT RISES

Last year was the fourth consecutive year that total farm debt rose around 10 percent over the previous year, the Agricultural Finance Branch of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture reports.

Firestone Worker Burned

A member of the power house department of Firestone Tire and Rubber company received burns from steam and hot water shortly after noon Wednesday while working on a pump at the local plant.

John H. Fretz, 48, Boyertown RD 3, is listed in satisfactory condition in the Pottstown Memorial Medical center, East division, where he was taken by ambulance.

A company spokesman said the man was working near a large water tank on the second level of the plant and had not shut off the valves to the pump.

Water and steam splurted from the pump, scalding Fretz' right arm, right thigh and chest. The machinery involved is called a "heat exchange unit" and supplies hot water for production purposes.

Another man was working with Fretz but received only minor burns and was treated at the plant dispensary. Fretz also was given first aid by the plant physician, Dr. Filadelfo Diaz.

School Directors Hire 4 Teachers

The Spring-Ford Area school district board at the November meeting on Wednesday night in the Senior High school in Royersford elected four teachers, granted two sabbatical leaves and named a custodian.

The resignation of Paul Rice as a custodian in the Limerick Elementary school was accepted.

Named as temporary professional employes at annual salaries of $5100 were Ann R. McNeil, Thornton, who will graduate in January from West Chester State college with a bachelor of science degree in physical education and health.

Also, Raymond J. Rowe, Millersville, who will graduate in January from Millersville State college with a bachelor of science degree in comprehensive science.

And, Franscis E. Allar, Kutztown, who will graduate in May from Kutztown State college with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education and Doris Ann Zern, 224 North Reading avenue, Boyertown, who will graduate in January with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education with special qualification to teach French.

Sabbatical leaves of absence were granted to Mrs. Ruth R. Hirt, Oaks Elementary school teacher for the 1966-67 school term due to illness and Mrs. Luella McMann, teacher in Limerick Elementary school, from Dec. 1 to June 1.

Russell Markwell, 165 West Ridge pike, Limerick was named to replace Rice as a custodian in the Limerick school. Markwell, 43, had 20 years military service and had previous employment of nine months at Polk State school as an attendant and three years as a guard at Eastern Pennsylvania Correctional institution, Graterford.

Herbert Widdop, chairman, who made the report of the personnel committee also recommended the following additions to the approved substitute teachers list: Mrs. Linda Jean Goodman, 1940 East High street, Pottstown, a graduate of Lycoming college in 1962 with a bachelor of Arts degree in psychology and education.

And, Richard R. Czapliwski, 348 Washington street, Royersford, a 1951 graduate of Miami university, Fla., with a bachelor of science degree in physical education. His teaching experience was in the Miami Edison Senior High school.

Mrs. Goodman taught for the past three years in the Millville, N. J. Area schools.

Requests of the following to attend educational conferences were granted: John Ferguson, John R. Guerney, Holman F. James, Jacqueline C. Mauger, Norman L. Reichenbach, Katherine Rogers, Richard H. Schell, Mrs. E. Jane Schneck, George C. Settle and Henry L. Rupp, superintendent of schools.

The rate for custodial service to organizations renting school buildings was increased to $4 per hour because the extra services usually require custodians to work more than the regular 40 hour week, increasing the rate to time and a half hourly wage.

Also increased was the hourly rate for home-bound instruction. The board officially adopted the increase from $2.50 to $4 per hour enacted by the Pennsylvania General Assembly, retroactive to Sept.

Following Sankey's recommendation, Glenn Borneman was named to the Spring-Ford School authority replacing Mrs. Barbara Bowman.

TV CAMEOS: Liam Sullivan

The Footlights Won Over Figures

By ED MISURELL
King Features Writer

In a profession filled with a goodly share of performers with off-beat backgrounds for an acting career you would have to search far to find one more anomalous than that of Liam Sullivan.

The tall, handsome star of ABC-tv's The Monroes was dutifully raised to take his place alongside his dad, brother and sister in the Eli Bridge Company, a firm that his family has owned and operated for three-quarters of a century in Jacksonville, Ill. It manufactures Ferris wheels for fairs and amumsement parks.

Accordingly, Liam went to high school in his home town. From there he went on to Culver Military academy, which concentrates on turning out toe-the-mark graduates. His next stop was Harvard university, where he majored in accounting and economics. While there he managed the university's radio station and served as an announcer.

"I WENT back to Jacksonville after graduating from Harvard in 1945," said Liam recently in New York, "and used my expensive education to straighten out dad's cost accounting system. When the local disc jockey became ill, I also took on his chores at the radio station. Then a college chum of mine who was working at CBS in New York called and offered me a job. I told dad and he said to give it a try. I did—and that was the end of Jacksonville for me."

Not long after his arrival in New York, Liam met the CBS radio casting director, who told him that he had a good voice. He soon began to play roles before the mike. "I still wasn't certain what kind of career I wanted to follow," he said, "so I went back to Harvard to see a prof who knew a lot about the theater. He suggested that I apply for work at the Hedgerow Theater near Philadelphia. I followed his advice and was accepted. And once I stepped onto a stage before a live audience I was hooked."

From the Hedgerow theater, Sullivan went into Summer stock. A tour with Margaret Webster's Shakespeare Company came next and he played in productions of The Taming of the Shrew and Julius Caesar. More Shakespearean roles followed at New York's City center when he performed with Joseph Schildkraut in Love's Labor Lost and with Luther Adler in The Merchant of Venice. In 1954 he played Romeo to Susan Strasberg's Juliet on the Kraft Television Theater.

In 1957, Liam went to the west coast on a tour with the play, The Reluctant Debutante. "Shortly after," he said with a smile, "I began to play psychotic cowboy heavies on television shows being filmed in Hollywood."

In succeeding years, Sullivan ran through the tv mill. You name the series and he's probably appeared on one of its shows at some time or other. His role in The Monroes, however, is his first continuing role in a series.

"UP TO NOW,' said Liam, "I wasn't interested in a running role. The nature of the parts they offered you meant you could do just so much with it, like playing husband to someone like Donna Reed. The leading ladies had the major spots. When I was offered the role of Major Mapoy in The Monroes, however, I changed my mind. They had 19 scripts and 11 outlines ready and I knew immediately what the part held for me."

To date, The Monroes has been shot entirely on location in Jackson, Wyo. "Our company is made up of some 65 people. They've built a whole town with fake fronts and a number of other structures with full interiors and removable walls so that the cameras can shoot from varied angles. The outdoor scenery is magnificent, beautiful backdrops for the cast to work before."

Sullivan, a lyricist and composer along with being an actor, has taken his small electric piano with him to Wyoming. "After you've been working six long days a week," he said, "playing the piano is a great tension-reliever."

The piano has an earphone attachment that permits him to play and hear the music himself without disturbing others. "When people first walked by my window and saw me playing with the earphones on and no music coming out," he laughed, "they thought that they had either lost their hearing or that I was absolutely mad."

Liam concluded that he was happy to disagree on both points.

A FORMER accountant, Liam Sullivan is now one of TV's most versatile actors. Here he is in ABC's The Monroes.

28TH ANNIVERSARY
All clear ahead
WHEN YOU HAVE
BLUE CROSS & BLUE SHIELD

MAN is pretty much of a worrywart. To ease his mind he invents things like safety razors, vitamin pills, fire extinguishers, emergency brakes, lightning rods and suspenders. Also, Blue Cross.

Especially Blue Cross. And Blue Shield. For studies show the chief anxiety of the working man and his family is—what will happen if someone gets sick? Those big hospital and medical bills. Dipping into savings, borrowing from the bank or Uncle Ed, mortgaging the home to meet the too-often devastating cost of modern care.

What a relief to have Blue Cross and Blue Shield to lean on. Then it's "clear ahead" as the railroaders say. The road is open. Smooth sailing. The way is safe. If illness comes—well, let it.

Blue Cross will meet all, or almost all, of the bill for your ordinary hospitalization. And even for many an extraordinary case amounting to thousands of dollars. Paying on the basis of hospital days of service used—rather than the fixed dollar allowances offered by other insurers—only Blue Cross sets its sights on your entire bill. Blue Shield, too, offers a service contract that leaves subscribers of moderate income with nothing extra to pay the Blue Shield doctor.

No wonder more than 2.1 million in Greater Philadelphia belong to Blue Cross and 1.7 million to Blue Shield. The proud flick of their Blue Cross and Blue Shield identification cards is all that is required at the hospital. No tiresome red tape for patient or employer. In and out of the modern hospital with the best of care, ready once more to be well and busy.

Always make sure the Blue Cross and Blue Shield signals are flashing "clear ahead" on your road.

Area School District Joins In Nationwide Safety Program

The green pennant for safety is flying above each elementary and secondary school in the Boyertown Area School district which includes approximately 6000 pupils.

The green pennant is the symbol of a nationwide traffic safety program aimed at increasing safety-awareness and reducing traffic accidents among school pupils.

The green pennant safety program, a service sponsored by General Motors corporation, was instituted in Boyertown Area School district last week. Plans for starting the program began last year.

Albert Sanft, local automobile dealer and a community relations chairman for the area, represented the sponsoring company in working out the details.

AT THE START of the school year, each school enroled in the program earns the privilege of flying the green pennant by completing 30 calendar days without a pupil-caused accident.

During this time, the flag flies daily from school flagstaffs under the American flag as long as that school has an accident-free record. The pennant is lowered and placed inside the school whenever there is a pupil-caused accident.

Accident records are kept by the local police department and by the principal of each school. The police department determines whether an accident is pupil-caused and so notifies the school principal.

Accidents in which a pupil is a vehicle passenger do not count against the record. The same is true of all injuries on school property. A pupil-caused accident generally is defined as one involving any vehicle—automobile, truck, bus, motorcycle, motor scooter, bicycle—where a pupil is determined by the police department to be the cause of the accident.

In the event of accidents, the green pennant is temporarily removed from the school flagstaff until another period of 30 accident-free days has been completed. At the end of this time, the pennant can be raised again.

Local police in the boroughs and townships involved, as well as the state police, are cooperating in this safety program.

PART OF A TOUR—Berks county residents were among a tour conducted in assembly plants in observance of Farm Industry Day sponsored by the Manufacturer's association of Berks county and county farm agencies. Among those attending were, left to right, A. Willet Geschwind, who conducted the tour, and Russell Mast, Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Mast, Mrs. Raymond Mast, Raymond Mast and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yanos.

Berks Residents Note Farm Industry Day

Three Berks county farm families visited the assembly plants of Boyertown Auto Body works as part of the countrywide Farm-Industry Day sponsored jointly by the Manufacturers association of Berks county and the various farm agencies of Berks county.

More than 430 farmers participated in the visitation of industries in Reading and throughout Berks county.

The company's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Mast and son, Russell, Oley; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mast, Oley, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yanos, Weavertown.

Paul R. Hafer, president, and B. Frank Hafer, secretary-treasurer of the Boyertown Auto Body works, greeted the families in the company offices and described the company's present world-wide sales operations.

A. WILLET Geschwind conducted the group through the Boyertown museum of historical vehicles of Berks county where they inspected the various vehicles, products of the county's delivery vehicle industry of over a hundred years.

"We never realized how big and extensive your plant and operation had become," was the remark most heard during the tour of the assembly plants and delivery-receiving yard installation.

William Y. Fleck of the advertising department, and Marion I. Miller, office manager of Boyertown Body and Equipment company served as guides for the guests.

Following the plant tour, the visitors attended a luncheon and special program tendered the nearly 500 farm guests at the Abraham Lincoln hotel, presided over by Paul M. Herring, president of the Manufacturers association of Berks county and president of the Kutztown Foundry and Machine corporation.

SIDNEY D. Kline, president of the Greater Berks Development fund, presented an illustrated talk, "A Decade of Progress," concerning the development and growth of diversified industries throughout the county and what this has meant to the economic health and well being of everyone residing in Berks.

A special program treat was in store for the guests in a motion picture film showing scenes of previous Farm-Industry Day visits at the various Berks county plants.

The Boyertown Auto Body works segment of the motion picture, photographed by Ralph Ritter photographer for the Boyertown Auto Body works, included travel scenes between the company plants and the several truck body production lines. Many in the audience, who were visitors that year, saw themselves in the film.

Additional color and interest in the program included large pennants displayed around the ballroom showing economic facts on each host firm.

At the close of the program, each farm family received a shopping bag of novelty items and sample products of Berks County industries.

CAP Schedules Hayride Tonight In Boyertown

An old fashioned hayride will replace the aerospace education classes for the members of the Gen. Carl A. Spaatz Squadron 807, Civil Air Patrol of Boyertown tonight as they meet at 6:30 o'clock in front of the adjutant's office at 121 South Jefferson street.

MINE EXPLODES

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A terrorist mine exploded near a U.S. military motor pool on the edge of Saigon and wounded three Vietnamese civilians, police reported.

The mine, apparently detonated by a timing device, had been placed on a bicycle and left near a spot where American servicemen gather to board buses. No Americans were injured.

CLASH WITH POLICE

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — About 12 students and police clashed in a Pembroke College auditorium at the conclusion of a speech on the Viet Nam war by Gen. Earle B. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Police took one Brown University graduate student into custody.

Seconds after Wheeler ended his talk, the students charged the stage in an apparent attempt to reach the general, but police and student ushers blocked their path and started tossing punches at the students. More police quickly ushered Wheeler out a side entrance and into a waiting limousine.

Officers were elected as follows: President Mrs. Edna Magners; Vice President Mrs. Marie Miller; Secretary Mrs. Ruth Jafolla; Assistant Secretary Mrs. Elsie Wolfe; Recording Secretary Mrs. Edythe Sandler; Treasurer Mrs. Verna Stitzel and Chaplain Mrs. Verna Leidy.

BOXSCORE OF GEMINI PROGRAM

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 12 rang down the curtain on a highly successful man-in-space program that proved every technique required for manned lunar landing flights.

Here is the flight-by-flight rundown of the project that sent 20 men into space in 20 months:

Gemini 1 and 2: April 8, 1964, and Jan. 19, 1965, were unmanned test launchings.

Gemini 3: March 23, 1965. Air Force Maj. Virgl I. Grissom and Navy Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young tested spacecraft systems and became the first men to maneuver a vehicle in space during a three-orbit mission that lasted 4 hours 54 minutes.

Gemini 4: June 3-7, 1965. Air Force Majs. Jaes A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II circled the globe for 97 hours 56 minutes and White became the first American to walk in space, strolling outside for 21 minutes.

Gemini 5: Aug. 21-29, 1965. Air Force L.T. Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. set what was then a manned space flight record of 120 orbits — 7 days, 22 hours, 56 minutes.

Gemini 7: Dec. 4-18, 1965, and Gemini 6, Dec. 15-16, 1965. The Gemini 6 pilots, Navy Capt Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, were to have caught and docked with an Agena satellite.

But the Agena satellite failed to orbit and a rendezvous with Gemini 7 was substituted. The Gemini 7 crew, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., took off first and remained in space a record 13 days, 18 hours, 35 minutes (206 orbits).

Gemini 6 darted into space during Gemini 7's 11th day and the two craft flew within inches of each other in man's first space rendezvous. Gemini 6 stayed aloft for 25 hours 51 minutes (17 orbits).

Gemini 8: March 16, 1966. Civilian Neil Armstrong and Air Force Maj. David R. Scott conducted man's first linkup with another satellite, successfully catching an Agena during their fourth orbit.

But a Gemini spacecraft thruster failed and the astronauts made an emergency landing in the Pacific. They were aloft just 6½ orbits, 10 hours 42 minutes, instead of the planned three days.

Gemini 9: June 3-6, 1966. Air Force Col. Thomas P. Afford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan were to have docked with an Agena, but the Atlas boosting the Agena failed and a smaller target satellite called an ATDA was substituted.

The astronauts caught the ATDA but were unable to dock with it because a protective shroud had not fallen completely away.

Gemini 9 conducted three different rendezvous maneuvers with the target, dubbed an "angry alligator." Cernan had to cut a space walk about half an hour short — after 2 hours 8 minutes outside — because of overwork. Flight lasted 44 orbits, 72 hours 21 minutes.

Gemini 10: July 18-21, 1966. Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Michael Collins joined with an Agena and fired its engine, shooting to a record altitude of 476 miles.

Collins poked half his body out an open hatch in a 55-minute "spacestand" and he took scientific photos. Gemini 10 used Agena to rendezvous with another Agena left in space from the Gemini 8 mission.

Collins walked over to the Agena 8 but had to hurry back after 30 minutes because of a low spacecraft fuel supply. Flight lasted 44 orbits, 71 hours 18 minutes.

Gemini 11: Sept. 12-15. Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr. caught and docked with an Agena during the first orbit in a record time of 90 minutes, then fired the Agena for an altitude mark of 850 miles.

Gordon cut short a space walk after 44 minutes because of exhaustion. Later, he successfully conducted a 2 hour 8 minute space stand. Connected by 100-foot cord, Gemini 11 and Agena flew in formation flight. Trip lasted 43 orbits, 70 hours 47 minutes.

Gemini 12: Nov. 11-15, 1966. Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. caught an Agena during the third orbit. Aldrin became champion space walker with two space stands of 2 hours 29 minutes and an hour and a space walk of 2 hours 9 minutes.

Aldrin proved man can work effectively outside. Flight ended after 59 orbits, 94 hours 34 minutes.

TWO PILOTS KILLED

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Two pilots were killed when a pair of F100 Super Sabre jet fighters collided and sent burning wreckage a half mile down the main runway at Homestead Air Force Base.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of relatives.

The planes were taking off, one behind the other, when the first appeared to falter. The second craft struck the faltering plane and both plunged to earth near the western end of the field and burst into flames.

The victims were assigned to the 31st Tactical Fighter Wing. One was killed outright and the other was pronounced dead on arrival at the base hospital.

The Air Force was investigating the cause of the collision. A spokesman said the planes, each costing more than $1 million, were demolished.

department."

The widow of Henry A. Bell Sr., chairman of the board of the National Bank of Pottstown (now Continental Bank and Trust company), began receiving therapy treatments following a stroke on April 4, 1965.

Prior to the death of her husband in 1964, she was accompanied to the hospital by him. And then she continued making her three trips a week by taxi.

Miss Burns, head of the physical therapy department said, "Mrs. Bell was a very pleasant woman to work with. In fact, she was a perfectionist and followed instructions explicitly. She wanted to get as well as possible because she never missed her days at the department."

Mrs. Bell, who met her husband in Middleton, when he was beginning his career in banking as an assistant cashier, was very active in church work at First United Presbyterian church. She served on the women's association and the ladies guild.

She was a member of the local Presbyterian church since 1918.

Besides being in church work, she was very active in the National competition of duplicate bridge and was one of the organizers of the competition at Brookside Country club.

Mrs. Bell was a life master having played bridge with such famous players as Ely Culbertson and Milton Work, both of New York City.

She played in National bridge competitions in New York City, Atlantic City and Chicago.

Memorial services will be tonight at 7:30 o'clock at First United Presbyterian church, 750 North Evans street.

Officiating will be the Rev. Richard B. Martin, pastor of First United Presbyterian church.

Entombment will be in the Highland Memorial Mausoleum at the convenience of the family.

Science Award Given To C-T High Senior

Collegeville-Trappe High school has selected Senior Daniel W. Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, Rahns, as the winner of its 1967 Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science award.

Jenkins was chosen among pupils considering a scientific career for having the highest science average.

The award winner is named early so that he can apply for scholarship aid from the Bausch and Lomb firm before the January deadline.

SCHUYLKILL SURVEY IS STARTED

roborating it was gathered.

BOROUGH Manager Joseph D. Banta and other local officials, and State Rep. Edwin G. Holl and other State Representatives joined forces to convince the State that whether or not the eariler job was sufficient, its work has been eradicated.

Large soil and silt banks clog the Schuylkill at Pottstown, channeling the water away from the historic and natural course into a new path.

Removal of the islands, dredging of the channel, strengthening of the banks and possibly an experimental inflatable dam downstream would not only solve flooding problems, say local advocates, but would provide recreation.

The Schuylkill above Philadelphia has been devoid of recreational facilities since the 19th century except for the Indian Head area near Norristown, which is gradually being filled with soil carried downstream.

These considerations, mainly how to correct the river flow so that floods will be prevented, are the job of the Forests and Waters men.

The E. H. Bourguard company, Harrisburg, will be doing the main survey after the State is finished with its initial observations.

in the area, possibly housed in a new building.

The company previously had stated flatly that it could not give up the existing freight facilities.

"Now they are willing to discuss it," Banta said.

Banta said he and other borough officials met in council chambers with the railroad spokesmen, a representative of the Redevelopment authority's consultants, and John McShane of the Redevelopment authority.

McShane said "quite a cooperative attitude" was expressed by the railroad at the meeting.

The enthusiasm of Banta and McShane represented a departure in the progress of the redevelopment talks.

Following a recent exchange of coldly worded letters between the Redevelopment authority and the railroad, future of the project remained in doubt.

The project area, for commercial redevelopment, is bounded by Hanover and York streets and by High street and the Pennsylvania railroad.

The Hotel Shuler among other commercial enterprises in the area would be removed by the redevelopment.

The project is designed to provide a modern area for shopping and other commercial purposes in the center of town.

Former Air Warden To Address Pilots

The first licensed pilot in Allentown and the chief air warden of Lehigh county during World War II will speak at tonight's meeting of the Pottstown Aircraft Owners and Pilots. John H. Leh, also a noted merchant, is the speaker invited for the dinner meeting at Milo's Country House, Limerick.

Leh's talk will begin at 9 o'clock.

An estimated 40,000 U.S. car hobbyists own vintage cars, automobiles which qualify as antiques because they were built before 1930.

Unless there is clearing shortly before dawn, which is possible, the "Leonids" will be lost to a generation.

A meteor shower of this type occurs when the earth in its path around the sun passes through the orbit of a comet, which has left debris behind.

There are "Leonids" every year, but a recurring scheme of heavy showers every 33⅓ years indicates on these occasions the earth is nearest to the concentration that was the head of the comet.

"Leonids" get their name because they appear to originate in the group of stars known as the constellation Leo, or the lion.

President Gets Good News After His Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was good news all around Wednesday on President Johnson after his double-header surgical operation — even including word that his new-found bursitis in his right shoulder appeared to be only temporary.

Among disclosures by Johnson's team of doctors at an early afternoon news conference were these:

1. The incisional hernia defect at the site of his year-old gallbladder operation scar was so small that doctors could repair it simply by bringing together the torn edges of the abdominal muscle wall and overlying fibrous tissue, called fascia, and sewing them securely.

Thus there was no requirement for a technique sometimes used, especially in cases of large breaks, of making an overlap of the involved tissues and nearby unbroken tissues and sewing them up in somewhat the fashion of fastening a double-breasted suit jacket.

2. One of Johnson's throat specialists, Dr. Wilbur J. Gould of New York — who teamed up with another doctor for the removal of the noncancerous polyp growth near the President's right vocal cord—indicated his strong belief there was no permanent damage caused to the vocal cord by the operation.

However, Gould said the President would have pain in the area for about a month and would be hoarse for possibly up to 6 weeks.

Dr. George A. Hallenbeck of the Mayo Clinic, the chief surgeon in the hernia operation, revealed that the body tissue involved in producing the hernial hump on the surface of the President's body had not come from inside the abdominal cavity.

Rather, he said, this soft tissue which constituted the hernial mass was tissue that originally had come from the area between the peritoneum, the membrane that lines the abdominal cavity, and the overlying abdominal muscle wall.

Thus, Hallenbeck said, it was not necessary to open up the abdominal cavity, as would have been necessary if a small section of the President's large bowel, for example, had constituted the protruding mass.

Gould disclosed that the polyp had been removed in three pieces. Actually, he said, the polyp itself was removed first and then "two tiny edges" of it still remaining were removed separately.

And he said that in employing the laryngoscope — the tube-like instrument with a light on the end which was inserted through the President's mouth into his throat — the surgeons supported the instrument by means of a special holder placed on the President's chest.

CONCENTRATION — President Johnson concentrates on some of his correspondence Wednesday in his bed at Bethesda Naval hospital only hours after undergoing surgery. The First Lady is at his side.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson came through a dual operation on his throat and abdomen in good shape Wednesday, and his doctor said he was quite confident the President would be as good as new by Jan. 1.

Johnson had been concerned about the surgery and what he called the curtain hanging over him. But his physicians said there was no evidence of cancer.

In fact, Johnson appeared to be getting back to a considerable degree of normalcy in rapid order.

His personal physician, Dr. James C. Cain, told reporters that "actually, he's doing extremely well. We're very pleased with the President's progress."

A small growth was removed from Johnson's throat, and a defect in an old scar in his side was repaired.

Four hours after the operation ended, Johnson was talking, though in a rather croaky whisper. And during the afternoon he was up and walking about his room a bit—100 to 200 steps—doing some late work, drinking fluids, and, Cain said, experiencing some expected distress.

From midafternoon on the President sat up for about 2½ hours.

Cain said Johnson's blood pressure had been normal and the President's good condition was due in part to the rest he got in Texas after his 31,500-mile trip to the Pacific and East Asia.

Cain said that this was good preparation for the stress of the surgery the President had gone through so successfully.

"He took it beautifully," Cain said, "and I am quite confident he will be as good as new by Jan. 1, by the time Congress gets back."

By way of further encouragement, presidential assistant George Christian said the President had received more than 2,000 get-well messages and telegrams Wednesday.

Thirty-three minutes after one operation removed a polyp on a vocal chord and a second closed an old incision from a gall bladder operation, Johnson was out from under an anesthetic and scribbling notes to his doctor.

And a little before noon, four hours out of surgery, he was smiling, touching thumb and fingertip in an "okay" sign, and actually talking a little in a 17-minute meeting with a group of reporters. It was in a hoarse whisper.

Johnson's color was good and he looked less worn and pale than he did after a kidney stone and gall bladder operation 13 months ago in the same hospital.

The President was back in his old third-floor suite with its white walls and gold draperies —and three paintings Mrs. Johnson had installed—one of the LBJ Ranch in Texas, one of the President's boyhood home, and another of the reconstructed birthplace.

Mrs. Johnson had spent the night at the hospital and was up with her husband at 5:00 a.m. When newsmen were ushered into the suite in late morning, she still was wearing a long gold robe that fitted the decor of the suite.

Mrs Johnson was asked if she ever had seen the President speechless before.

"No," she smiled. "And we're going to make the most of it."

The Johnsons will observe the 32d wedding anniversary Thursday, even if they can't celebrate it.

The President still has some physical problems. The doctors ordered him "to make no formal speeches for a period of four to five weeks and to keep the use of his voice at a minimum," White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers reported.

Moyers said the President will have three or four weeks of pain and discomfort as a result of the throat operation. He also has bursitis in his right shoulder which Moyers said will require some heat treatment and Physical therapy. The bursitis was diagnosed after some examinations Tuesday.

Johnson has been complaining about soreness in the shoulder for two or three weeks.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who would have taken over if Johnson had been unable to perform his duties in an emergency, was notified immediately when the operation was over. A member of the White House staff called him on a direct line at his home.

Moyers said nothing had happened to require any action or decision by Humphrey while Johnson was under anesthetic for almost an hour and 30 minutes.

Not much was being said about the new operation to repair an incision from an old one. But a half-inch hole in the abdomen required a two-inch incision and then a stitching that pulled the edges of the stomach muscle and its sheath together.

The hole resulted from improper healing of a spot where drainage tubes came out of the original incision. Tissue about the size of a golf ball or a little larger had protruded and this hernia had to be taken care of.

The doctors expect to keep him in the hospital several days and then let him go back to the LBJ Ranch to recuperate as he did a year ago.

Gemini 12 Astronauts Back at Cape Kennedy

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With kisses of joy from relatives and ringing applause from the launch team, America's champion Gemini 12 pilots returned to Cape Kennedy Wednesday wishing "every person in the world" could have squeezed inside their spaceship.

"I'm so glad to see you," bubbled command pilot James A. Lovell Jr.'s mother, Blance Lovell of nearby Edgewater, Fla., as the astronaut hugged her warmly.

"I'm sure glad you came down to see me back," Lovell replied. "I'm back home safe and sound."

Spacewalking king Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., who scrambled around orbiting Gemini 12 like a monkey, received a banana and pair of golden slippers from his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Moon of Arcadia, Calif.

"We kept kidding Buzz about being a chimpanzee in space," quipped Navy Capt. Lovell.

"And now I finally got the banana," grinned Air Force Maj. Aldrin.

The slippers symbolized golden slipper-like foot restraints Aldrin used for leverage when hanging on the rear of Gemini 12 during his record-shattering space stroll.

Wearing blue flight suits and beaming with pride, the pilots landed here in separate Navy planes at 11 a.m. after a two-hour trip from the aircraft carrier Wasp, which recovered them Tuesday from the western Atlantic.

A clowd of some 700 persons —many belonging to the Gemini launch crew that is now out of business—greeted the spacemen with loud applause and a large red, white and blue banner reading:

"Welcome back, Jim and Buzz."

"I feel humble," Aldrin said, stepping to a microphone," and at the same time proud to be a part of this last flight in Gemini."

"What we did up there and what we caw was a treat to me as an individual I would like to have shared with every person in the world. It was just fantastic," he said.

Gemini 12's successful four-day flight concluded the historic Gemini project and opened the way for America's last and biggest step to the moon—Apollo.

JET DROPS WEAPON OFF PUERTO RICO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported Wednesday that a Navy jet plane 'prematurely dropped a practice weapon into waters off Puerto Rico during practice maneuvers June 30. The practice weapon did not contain any nuclear material and was recovered by a salvage ship Aug. 20, a statement said.

The Defense Department specifically denied a copyright story in the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune that an Air Force bomber accidentally dropped a hydrogen bomb into that area last August.

"No such incident as described in the Oakland Tribune has occurred," the Pentagon said.

What did happen, a statement added, was that a Navy A4 jet from the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt "prematurely dropped a practice weapon short of the target' which was a simulated airfield on the island."

The statement continued: "The practice weapon did not contain any nuclear material, but because it did contain a small charge of conventional explosives and electronic equipment.

Carrier Returns From Viet Duty

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The fire-scathed attack carrier Oriskany and her proud, weary men returned from war Wednesday, their homecoming saddened by the loss of 54 men.

Bands played and an estimated 2,000 wives, children and friends greeted the 42,000-ton carrier as it docked under gray skies.

Forty-four men, including 25 pilots, were victims of the tragic Oct. 26 fire, evidence of which still lingers on scorched walls of the hangar bay and living quarters.

Ten pilots of Carrier Air Wing 16 were lost on strike missions over Viet Nam.

The skipper of the 21-year-old carrier, Capt. J.H. Iarrobino of Coronado, Calif., praised his 3,000-man crew and said he hoped that the ship would not miss its third rotation back to the Viet Nam war zone.

"The morale of the men is terrific," the skipper said. "This ship's performance was really outstanding—not just outstanding, but great."

"We were in a state of shock for a short period of time," Iarrobino said, speaking of his crew after the fire. "But we're digging ourselves out now. This ship will answer the bell for the next round."

After a week in San Diego the ship goes to San Francisco for three or four months of repair and overhaul, followed by another tour of war duty.

A board of inquiry investigating all aspects of the fire will take "roughly another two weeks to finish," Iarrobino said.

"We don't know whether it was a malfunction of a flare or personnel fault that caused the fire," the captain said, adding that as yet no disciplinary action has been taken against two men who were handling the magnesium illumination flares that triggered the three explosions.

It was the worst sea tragedy of the Viet Nam war, and although crewmen did not want to talk about the fire, tales of heroism were many.

38 KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRAINS

NILOPOLIS, Brazil (AP) — A crowded commuter train heading for Rio de Janeiro from working-class suburbs ran through stop signals Wednesday and collided head on with another train.

Police said 38 were known dead and more than 200 injured. Fifteen of the injared were listed in critical condition.

Police Inspector Joel Crespo said he counted 30 bodies at an improvised morgue near Olinda station. He said eight other passengers had died in hospitals after being removed from the tangle of derailed cars and twisted wreckage.

ARMY ATTACK OF ISRAEL IS CONDEMNED

Big Three Western Powers, Russia Criticize

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Big Three Western powers and the Soviet Union condemned Israel Wednesday for a large-scale military attack on three Jordanian border villages in reprisal for Arab sabotage raids on Israeli territory.

Varying only in intensity of language, the delegates of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union sharply criticized Israel.

But Jordan, at an urgent U.N. Security Council meeting convened at its request, blamed the United States for rising tension in the Middle East. It said condemnation was not eough and asked the council to consider punitive action.

Israel defended the raids, made last Sunday, as a necessary countermeasure to a series of sabotage attacks from bases in Jordan and Syria.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said his country was the first to issue a statement condemning the reprisal attack immediately after learning about it.

"The United States then condemned this raid, and condemns it now, deeming it in clear violation of the solemn obligations undertaken by Israel in the general armistice agreements," he said.

"And what makes it of course most deplorable is the tragic toll in human lives of this inexcusable action."

Muhammad H. El-Farra, the Jordanian delegate, described the attack as "vicious, merciless and inhuman." He listed the casualties as at least eight civilians and 12 Jordanians killed, in addition to many wounded. A U.N. report said 125 buildings were demolished.

El-Farra called on the council to consider action under chapter seven of the U.N. Charter, which contemplates sanctions and even use of military force in dealing with threats to peace.

He said the United States has made a domestic issue out of the Palestine question, and added that U.S. policy, "therefore, has been no deterrent to the Zionist criminals who cross the demarcation lines to destroy and butcher."

Goldberg made no direct reply to that charge by El-Farra, but said that the reprisal attack "caused loss of life and destruction far in excess of the cumulative total of the various acts of terrorism conducted against the frontiers of Israel."

Despite his criticism of the Israeli attack Goldberg made plain that he believed the council should deal with what he described as "the total situation," and speak out also against terrorist attacks, as it has on previous occasions.

ACTOR CLINGS—Waves smash over the freighter Jalisco as it sank in the Pacific 110 miles off San Diego. Actor Joe Kirkwood, who starred as the movies' "Joe Palooka," was one of four men swept off the 7000 ton ship when it sank after hitting a reef. Kirkwood clings to a flagpole at bow (extreme left) just before he was carried into the sea by waves. All four men on the ship were rescued. Kirkwood and associates were taking the old freighter to a reef where they intended to sink her and start a manmade island, with the ship as the core.

SPLIT AMONG COMMUNISTS GETS WIDER

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — The split widened Wednesday in Communist ranks over the China problem while Hanoi's hard line on a Vietnamese settlement gathered more support.

Differences became more apparent as more Communist party delegations addressed a congress here of the Bulgarian Communist party.

In speeches made public so far from the closed sessions, seven parties lined up behind a Soviet-inspired effort to hold a world Communist conference to seek unity in the divided Communist movement. Three opposed it and some were equivocal or ignored the subject.

It has become the most dramatic issue of this gathering of Communist and leftist parties from some 70 nations.

The Kremlin wants a conference to establish a pro-Soviet policy line that would leave China an outcast from the world Communist movement. Both Moscow and Peking now denounce the other's policies as deviations from true communism.

But a conference would leave no room for neutralist Communist parties that are presently trying to use the Moscow-Peking dispute to assert their nationalistic interests. So they are opposing it, or dragging their feet.

On Viet Nam, the recent Soviet quiet line that omits any public statement of conditions for a peace settlement was countered by speeches reasserting Communist demands for total victory.

Calls Draft Unfair

Wirtz Proposes Board to Sign Up Youths for Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, calling the military draft unfair, proposed Wednesday a national "opportunity board" to register youths for community service, education and job training as well as military service.

He said it could be tried on a voluntary basis first, and possibly make it compulsory later if necessary.

Wirtz told Catholic University students they were benefiting from "a Selective Service System more haphazard and inequitable than any method yet tried or suggested for selection for military service."

In his prepared speech, he said the present draft system "almost compels, as I see it, some kind of lottery system for selection for military service."

Wirtz was the second major Johnson administration official to suggest a draft lottery, which is opposed by the Selective Service.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in a Harvard University interview earlier this month that a national lottery would help in "eliminating the deficiencies" of the present draft system.

Both Wirtz and McNamara said specific action should await the report of the National Commission on Selective Service appointed by President Johnson. The report is due in January.

The commission is also considering "a broad-scale national service program."

Wirtz suggested his national "opportunity board" proposal be tried first on an entirely voluntary basis.

He proposed that every boy and girl register with the community at age 18, that the community have the obligation of providing every youth two years of further education, job training or a job, or a community service program, and "that it be recognized as the youth's obligation, in return, to use this opportunity."

On the possibility of making such registration compulsory, Wirtz said:

"It would be precisely those who present the most seriou problems, both for themselves and for the community, who would fail to take advantage of any or all of the options which were offered them; and their continuing misdemeanors would make a new system seem not to be working even if it were in fact improving the general situation materially."

S. VIET NAM ASSEMBLY WILL MEET

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The writers of a new constitution for South Viet Nam planned to meet in open session Thursday after a week of backstage maneuvering aimed at avoiding a direct clash between them and the military government.

Many in the Constituent Assembly warn they will not rubber-stamp a constitution handed them by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime.

After stormy sessions last week, the 117-member assembly adjourned to seek a face-saving compromise.

Informed sources said a public knockdown, drag-out battle had been avoided but that extremist elements were expected to continue sniping at the junta.

Much of the dispute centers on Articles 20 and 21 of the assembly's by-laws. Article 20 gives Ky's regime power to amend the constitution, the assembly can overrule the amendments only by a two-thirds vote. Article 21 calls for dissolution of the assembly as soon as it finishes the new national charter.

Critics in the assembly say the government should have no veto power over their work: they want to continue sitting until a civilian government is elected.

Joint Units Battle Reds in 2 Sectors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Army, Marine and South Vietnamese units battled enemy troops Wednesday in two sectors 350 miles apart. Guerrilla gunners downed two more American aircraft. Viet Cong mortars shelled an American regimental command post.

Ground action picked up after five days of bad weather that restricted U.S. bombing and reconnaissance missions over North Viet Nam, a font of Communist troops and supplies for the war in the south. Only 25 such missions were flown Tuesday, compared with the fair weather records of 171.

Whatever the enemy's utilization of this lull:

—Two Marine companies and two South Vietnamese companies— about 600 men in all—reported killing 14 North Vietnamese regulars in heavy fighting with a Communist force of undetermined size 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone between the two Viet Nams. It was the first significant contact in six weeks in Operation Prairie, designed to cut off infiltration from the north. Though the shooting continued after dusk, allied casualties were said to be light.

—A U.S. 1st Infantry Division battalion—600 or 700 or the 30,000 Americans committed to Operation Attleboro—stirred up light but consistent contact with hard-core forces of the Viet Cong's 9th Division in War Zone C, 60 miles northwest of Saigon. Military spokesmen here still awaited details.

—Viet Cong mortar shells exploded after nightfall at the command post of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment 40 miles west of Saigon. The Americans answered with mortar and artillery fire. Their casualties were officially termed light. There was no information as to whether any of the enemy were hit.

Air losses in the south were a Marine helicopter and an Air Force F100 Super Sabre Jet. The crewmen of both were rescued. The helicopter was shot down in Operation Prairie; the Super Sabre on a combat run in the central highlands 45 miles southwest of Kontum City.

The helicopter was the 224th and the plane the 134th officially acknowledged as felled by enemy action in the south.

B52 jets from Guam spearheaded air attacks against enemy holdings in War Zone C, where they rounded out a week of saturation bombings, and below the demilitarized zone, where they dumped tons of explosives on a suspected Viet Cong training center 15 miles west of the city of Hue.

The count of enemy dead in Operation Attleboro rose to 965 with the discovery of 15, reported killed by air strikes, in a Viet Cong camp that a 1st Division unit destroyed. Uncovering of two enemy rice caches totalling 490 tons raised to a near record 2,000 tons, the supply of that food grain seized since the operation was launched Oct. 15.

Official sources said the hostilities have made refugees of more than 15,000 Vietnamese in the zone, a jungle territory adjoining the Cambodian frontier where the Viet Cong have built up supply bases and fortifications for years. Newsmen in the field said many were made homeless by U.S. artillery and air strikes supporting the infantry advances.

In the political field, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky expects to have four new Cabinet ministers sworn in Friday to replace southerners who resigned with the complaint that northerners were dominating the government. The seven-week-old Cabinet crisis does not imperil the military regime. Cabinet posts are largely advisory. Real power rests with the generals.

Ky's financial expert, Truong Thai Ton, is taking over the Economy Ministry vacated by Au Truong Thanh. Experts say steps must be taken soon to prevent further inflation from weakening the nation's fragile economy.

Other appointees are Dr. Nguyen Van Tho, education; Col. Ho Van Di Hinh, youth; and Nguyen Xuan Phong, social welfare.

Military Wives Can Obtain Free Devices for BC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wives of servicemen may obtain free contraceptive devices and sterilization operations at military hospitals under an expanded birth control program being put into effect by the Defense Department.

Pentagon sources said Wednesday the additional assistance for those requesting it was ordered by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara last month.

He acted after Congress passed legislation relaxing restrictions in the law governing medical care for dependets of military personnel.

An official said that under the revised rules "surgical sterilization is considered as a technique within the concept of a family planning service."

Guidelines for the program, effective Jan. 1, provide that such an operation may be performed if a dependent wife requests it and if the attending physician is of the opinion it would be in "accordance with sound medical practice in the particular case under consideration."

Also, the military hospital would have to have the capability for performing the operation and be able to do so without interfering with its primary mission.

Officials said they did not know of any such operations in military hospitals in the past.

McNamara's order to service secretaries last month said in part:

"Family planning services and supplies, including counseling and guidance, shall be provided in accordance with sound medical practice and subject to the availibility of space and facilities and the capabilities of the medical staff to any eligible dependent wife upon her request."

Acquitted in Slaying of First Wife

Sheppard Innocent of Killing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard was acquitted Wednesday night in the 1954 bludgeon slaying of his first wife Marilyn, a crime for which he already had spent nine years in prison.

At the verdict, Sheppard slammed his hand on the console table with a resounding blow of exultation, then put his head in his left hand and broke into shoulder-shaking sobs.

His second wife, blonde Ariane Tebbenjohanns Sheppard, burst into tears in a spectator's seat.

"Christmas never has arrived this way," Sheppard said afterwards, smiling in a corridor, a free man for the first time in 12 years.

He embraced his wife in the courtroom briefly and outside swept her into his arms.

A jury of seven men and five women got the case after 10:30 a.m., and returned their verdict at 10:18 p.m. In Common Pleas Judge Francis J. Talty's second-floor courtroom, in the Cuyahoga County Courthouse across the hall from the scene of Sheppard's 1954 trial, which ended in a conviction for second-degree murder.

A U. S. Supreme Court decision last spring upset the original conviction and granted Sheppard a new trial which began Oct. 24 and concluded in Wednesday night's victory.

Asked outside of court if he felt the latest verdict was a full vindication, Sheppard replied without giving a direct response, "Give me a break, will you."

Mrs. Sheppard, once her tears stopped, told newsmen, "We have no plans."

As for Sheppard, with his arm around her, he said, "I'm going to be with my wife."

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey declined to answer a question as to whether Sheppard will seek to regain his license as an osteopath, which he lost while in prison.

Jury foreman Ralph J. Vichill, 33, a quality control engineer for General Electric Co., sent a note down to Judge Talty shortly before 10 p.m. It read: "We have reached a verdict," and was signed by the foreman.

A few minutes later after the jury had filed into the room, Vichill handed over the written verdict, which was conveyed to Judge Talty, who read it.

Prosecutor John T. Corrigan commented: "The jury has spoken. I believe in the jury system."

When the jury retired in late morning to its third-floor jury quarters, it took a copy of the indictment which charged that "Sam H. Sheppard, on or about the fourth day of July 1954, in the couny aforesaid, unlawfully, purposefully and maliciously killed Marilyn Sheppard."

In a 40-minute charge to the Jury Talty gave them three possible verdicts, guilty of second-degree murder, guilty of first-degree manslaughter and acquittal.

It was the latter finding that granted Sheppard final release from a charge that has hung over his head since 1954.

Sheppard, 42, was sentenced to life Dec. 21, 1954, for second-degree murder after a nine-week trial. The original jury also was composed of seven men and five women. He entered prison July 20, 1955, after the failure of his first appeal.

On July 16, 1964, Sheppard was released in $10,000 bail from Ohio State Penitentiary by order of a U.S. District Court judge in Dayton, Ohio. Last June 6, in a review of this decision, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered a new trial on grounds that "prejudicial publicity" and "a carnival atmosphere" at the first trial tainted the conviction.

Marilyn Sheppard died with more than 25 bone-deep blows to the head on a cool Sunday morning in the upstairs bedroom of her suburban Bay Village home, fronting on Lake Erie, west of Cleveland. She was 31 at the time, and four months pregnant with her second child.

Known to be in the house at the time were Sheppard and their son, Samuel (Chip) Sheppard, then 7 and now a 19-year-old freshman at Boston University. Young Sheppard testified in the current trial that he never awakened during that bygone night of violence.

The state said Sheppard killed Marilyn during a quarrel over his attentions to Susan Hayes, then a young, attractive medical technician at Bay View Hospital. Sheppard, who since has lost his medical license, served there as a neurosurgeon in a family of osteopaths that included his two older brothers and his father, since deceased.

Miss Hayes reportedly is married now and living in Santa Monica, Calif. She and Sheppard both testified at the 1954 trial, admitting their illicit romance. Neither testified at the current trial.

Judge Talty admonished the jury that Sheppard's failure to testify was within the defendant's constitutional rights, and that the jurors were not to "draw any inference from his failure to testify."

In the 12 years since the slaying, Sheppard has contended that the bloody crime was committed by an intruduer, who knocked him unconscious after beating Marilyn to death.

In this trial, the defense raised a suggestion before the jury that two outsiders may have been involved in Marilyn's slaying, one of them a woman, and that they might have been known to the Sheppards.

In his closing argument to the jury, Bailey declared:

"Someone was angry enough to kill, someone who didn't have the strength in her arms that Sam Sheppard had, for he would have crushed her skull like an eggshell. Why was this person so angry? What had Marilyn done to anger that person? We'll never really know."

Lady Bird Glad Operation Over And is Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, who said beforehand she wasn't worried or aware of strain, admitted "I was relieved" after the President's surgery Wednesday was pronounced a success.

"I'm glad to have it behind us," she said, "and I look forward to a quiet recuperation period."

The First Lady had remained overnight with her husband at Bethesda Naval Hospital and was up about 5 a.m. to be with the President after he awakened.

She got the good word immediately after the operation from Dr. James C. Cain, a Texan and long-time Johnson family friend and physician, who is a Mayo Clinic consultant.

Mrs. Johnson had waited out the operation in the gold and white third-floor presidential hospital suite. She had decided that daughters Luci and Lynda should remain at the White House. But, the first thing she did was to telephone the good news to them.

It was a long hour and a half before the President came out of the anesthetic to be greeted by a kiss from his wife and her assurances that the doctors had reported full success and that the small throat growth was benign.

The President nodded and smiled, Mrs. Johnson later reported to her press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, who relayed to reporters news of Mrs. Johnson's activities and reactions to the hospital drama.

Mrs. Johnson was on hand when a pool of reporters came to see the President four hours after the operation. When asked if she had ever seen the President speechless before, Mrs. Johnson replied with smiling humor: "No, and we're going to make the most of it."

The President, asked by his doctors to keep talking to a minimum, was writing notes to family and staff on a small spiral pad, using a soft-tipped felt pen he prefers. He had some messages for his wife, and she said they included, "Turn on TV" and, "Bring me some tea."

Johnson got his request to watch television, with three sets propped up at the foot of his hospital bed. But, apparently the tea was barred. He got some soup and ice cubes to suck on, Cain reported.

Luci Johnson Nugent showed up at the hospital around 11 a.m., greeting her father with a kiss.

She said she tried to think up something that would amuse him.

According to Mrs. Carpenter's reports Luci told the President one of the five new beagle puppies at the White House — born Oct. 26 — had already learned to howl.

He smiled at that, Mrs. Carpenter said.

General Motors Sued by Nader

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Nader, who spurred Congress to pass a new auto safety law, sued General Motors on Wednesday for $26 million.

The 32-year-old attorney also named as defendants in the ivasion-of-privacy suit private detectives he said were hired by GM.

He said the detectives questioned his acquaintances and cast "aspersions upon plaintiff's political, social, economic, racial and religious views, tendencies and possible prejudices; his integrity, his sexual proclivities and inclinations; and his personal habits, such as use of intoxicants, narcotics and the like," the suit said.

Comfort of Wearing contact lenses

Anyone who is considered to be suitable for the wearing of contact lenses, can wear them if he has the proper desire and motivation.

Desire — is perhaps the most important single factor determining ability to wear contact lenses.

The process of fitting the lenses is not painful, although there may be some discomfort at first. Remember that the eye is insensitive to gross pressure! This is demonstrated by the fact that we can open our eyes under water or rub them without injury.

The wearing-time varies with the individual, but most people can wear them all during their waking hours.

In our next installment next Thursday, Nov. 24th, we will discuss the safety of contact lenses.

Vice President Stands by During LBJ's Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the time President Johnson went under the surgeon's knife Wednesday, his vice president was awake in his apartment on the Potomac River. And, he said, "I just gave a quiet little prayer everything would be all right."

But Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told newsmen there was no change in the national security procedure during the same 90 minutes the President was under an anesthetic, when Humphrey was standing by to act for him in event of emergency — such as a nuclear attack.

Humphrey spent that time in his new eighth-floor apartment, having breakfast prepared by his wife, reading reports, correspondence and memos and, finally, getting word from presidential aide Bill Moyers "that all had gone well."

That word, he said, came at 7:22 a.m., and about 45 minutes later he plunged out of the apartment and into what he described as a generally routine day. That included quipping by telephone with the Gemini 12 astronauts aboard the carrier Wasp and giving four newsmen a lift that ended up in a brisk 11-minute walk.

Humphrey invited the four reporters, who had been waiting in his apartment lobby for his appearance, to share his limousine for the ride to the Executive Office Building next to the White House.

About a quarter of a mile away from the goal Humphrey stopped the car and led his small troop on a Harry S. Truman-style march along the park behind the executive mansion, greeting rather surprised passers-by and pointing out the beauty of the scenery to panting reporters.

Humphrey explained he tried to take such a hike every day, and "It's great for the heart."

But one woman in a car wasn't pleased to be stopped by the vice president's constitutional. She rolled down the window and announced with some heat, "That's not a crosswalk."

"Anybody has a right to be angry this early in the morning," said Humphrey philosophically.

Pontiff Issues Warning To Catholicism's Jesuits

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI on Wednesday warned Roman Catholicism's largest and most influential order—the Society of Jesus (Jesuits) — not to weaken in its traditional obedience to the papacy.

At the same time he praised the 35,000-member order and exhorted the Jesuits to help carry out the modernization program outlined by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The Pope made his speech to 220 Jesuit delegates from around the world winding up this week the closing phase of a General Congregation, or legislative assembly, in session since Sept. 8.

Some of the delegates were taken aback by the sternness of the Pope's words.

"You didn't know whether he was going to end up by excommunicating you," one of them remarked wryly.

But a general reaction among the delegates was that the Pope had spoken in a way to emphasize with blunt force that he expects the order — formed in the 16th century as a kind of elite force—to give the same kind of service to the Church in the changing world as it had in the past.

The Pope told the delegates that he had heard "news and rumors about your society, as well as other religious orders, about which we cannot conceal our surprise and, for some of them, our grief."

He did not elaborate, but he went on to enjoin the Jesuits not to question the doctrinal rights of the papacy.

Of all the Church orders, only the Jesuits take the vow of absolute obedience to the Pope in addition to the traditional vows of chastity, poverty and general obedience.

Market Rallies On Large Volume

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rallied Wednesday on the biggest volume since last summer as it celebrated the success of President Johnson's surgery and the report that there was no malignancy.

Turnover swelled to 10.36 million shares, the heaviest since Aug. 30 when 11.21 million shares changed hands.

Prices rose from the opening, as the surgery was completed and the news was out well in advance of the starting bell on the New York Stock Exchange. Analysts saw the news as removing one important element of uncertainty and supplying Wall Street with an "excuse" for a rally when other circumstances were propitious.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.56 to 820.87. Many glamor stocks among electronics, aerospace issues and airlines made big strikes on heavy trading.

Collins Radio, a major producer of airborne electronic equipment, gained 5⅛ at 56⅛.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.6 to 301.3 with industrials up 1.5, rails up 3.9 and utilities up .7.

HIGH FOOD PRICES ARE DEFENDED

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of food manufacturers and retailers, sharply aware of the growing furor over rising food prices, defended those prices and offered housewives little hope that the price spiral would stop soon.

"Food prices are up, there's no doubt about it," said George W. Koch, president of the Grocery Manufactuers of America, a group that speaks for the American food industry.

"But the farmer is not to blame — the manufacturer is not to blame — the distributor is not to blame. There's nothing that the men from the farm to the table can do about it."

The major blame, he said, lies in the fact that the United States is at war.

"I don't care what Washington wants to call it, for all practical purposes we are at war in Viet Nam. Every time this nation is at war, this nation's economy is inflated.

"Rising food prices are the result of this inflation, but they are not the cause of it."

Koch said that farm, manufacturing and distribution costs are up and those higher costs are reflected in costs to consumers.

Part of the reason, he said, is that the once vast food surpluses of the United States have been depleted because of increased foreign and domestic demands to the point "where supply and demand have just about met."

"For example, when Florida's citrus crop is damaged by frost, the price of orange juice goes up immediately," he said. "That's what we're experiencing now on a much larger scale. It's the old American economic law of supply and demand."

Koch said the price of everything is up, and added: "But a housewife doesn't buy a car every week, she doesn't buy a new refrigerator or washer every week.

"But she does buy groceries every week and is much, much more aware that groceries are costing her more today than a couple of years ago.

"And groceries are going to continue to cost her more as long as inflation continues. That's not a happy thought, but that's the way it is."

Koch's sentiments were echoed in a statement issued this week by eight organizations representing the nation's food manufacturers.

The statement noted that about 40 cents of each food dollar goes for actual foodstuffs, the rest for transportation, preparation, distribution, processing, and sales. Costly improvements in these fields, the statement noted, has contributed to the rise in food costs.

But, it added, "six years ago, consumers were spending 20 per cent of their incomes (after taxes) for food. In 1965, consumers paid out only 18.2 per cent of their incomes for food."

"Figures like that don't mean much to the average housewife," Koch said. "All they know is that their grocery bills are higher and that have had no good explanation of why that is so."

Injured Youngster Remains in Coma

Mary Ellen White, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, 565 Lincoln avenue, remained in serious condition Wednesday in Reading hospital.

She has been in a coma for 19 days since being struck by an auto in front of her home on October 29.

Grain Futures Market

CHICAGO (AP) — New overseas demand for wheat spurred trading in wheat futures on the Board of Trade Wednesday and prices advanced as much as four cents above early low levels.

Famine in India and purchases by Pakistan and Morocco running into millions of bushels of wheat gave strong indications that United States exports again will be large in the coming year.

Reports continued from the Southwestern United States concerning the shortage of moisture.

There was heavy trading in corn at lower prices. Hedge selling of futures was heavy and longs liquidated, but the demand was poor.

November soybeans continued to reflect tight supplies. Receipts were small.

Wheat closed 2⅝-3¾ cents a bushel higher, December $1.75⅜-¼; corn ⅛-2⅞ lower, December $1.37⅜-⅛; oats ⅜-1 cent lower, December 75⅜ cents; rye ¼ lower to ⅝ higher, December $1.22½-¼; and soybeans 2⅜ cents lower to 2½ cents higher, November $3.02¾-$3.01¾.

The number for news tips is 323-3000.

Ursinus College Not Threatened by Supreme Court Action

Ursinus college, a church-affiliated but not church-controlled institution, apparently cannot be affected by the United States Supreme Court's action this week on the question of church and state.

The Court sidestepped the controversial issue by declining to review a decision in Maryland that declared grants to church-controlled colleges unconstitutional.

The action left in effect the ruling by the Court of Appeals of Maryland that colleges with a religious "image" cannot receive public grants, even when the funds were to have been spent for nonreligious purposes.

The high Maryland court's decision was to permit such grants to Hood college, affiliated with the United Church of Christ, while denying them to three other colleges in the State.

URSINUS, the only college in the Pottstown area, apparently fits in the same category as Hood because it is affiliated with the same church and is regarded as receiving from it only "token support."

The Supreme Court action is seen by court observers as having a widespread effect on thinking in future cases, although the action of refusing to review a case is not binding on other courts.

But allowing the Maryland decision to stand could be a presage for a future Supreme Court decision along those lines, casting in doubt the constitutionality of federal $1.6 billion program of aid to private colleges and the $1 billion plan for aid to elementary and secondary education as well.

If the Supreme Court's tacit approval of the Maryland decision is used as a guideline, many Pennsylvania colleges could be considered in danger of losing federal and State aid although Ursinus would seem to remain eligible.

FREDERICK WENTZ, treasurer of Ursinus college, said that federal money has been received for various science projects in the past and an application is pending for federal aid for the recently built $1.5 million classroom building.

State grants for construction of college dormitories, classrooms, and science buildings were the foundation for the suit that led the decision against public support by Maryland's highest court.

The Horace Mann league, an organization prominent in the resistance to federal aid to higher education, brought the suit against Notre Dame and St. Joseph colleges, two Roman Catholic schools for girls, Western Maryland, a school with a Methodist background, and Hood college.

The Maryland Court of Appeals, in a five to four decision handed down the past June 2, analyzed in detail the religious aspects of each institution and concluded that the two Catholic colleges and the Methodist institution projected a religious "image."

The court voided the grant to them but approved the grant to Hood college, which it found to be essentially secular in character.

Wentz said Ursinus, which like Hood is affiliated with the United Church of Christ, must be considered in the same category and thus free to accept federal grants.

"I think the ruling is right," Wentz said. "Any church-supported college and church-controlled college should be under the ruling."

Athletic Director Named 'Man of Year' by YMCA

David H. Mercer, director of athletics at The Hill school, Wednesday night was named by the Pottstown YMCA as its "Man of the Year."

For most of his 18 years in Pottstown, Mercer has contributed his time and talents to the YMCA's physical education and athletic program for youngsters.

He is the fifth Pottstonian so honored by the YMCA, which made its presentation to Mercer during its board of directors meeting at Brookside Country club.

MERCER IS A graduate of the George school, Newtown, Bucks county, and the University of Pennsylvania. He is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force, serving during World War II.

DAVID H. MERCER

His entire teaching career has been at The Hill, where he arrived in 1948 to be director of physical education. He is now director of athletics.

In addition to his activities as track and JV football coach at The Hill, he gave the YMCA his spare time as a board member and in committee work.

The award "Man of the Year," according to the YMCA, "is made only to a carefully chosen man who has excelled in service to the YMCA."

AMONG THE testimonials was one from a physical director of the YMCA who said, "He is one of the finest men with whom I've had the pleasure to work."

Another comment came from a former president of the YMCA board who said, "He is a stalwart and sturdy character, who serves well and commands our esteem and respect."

Mercer follows in the footsteps of his late father, E. LeRoy Mercer, who was athletic director of the Univesrity of Pennsylvania.

While at the school he won honors in basketball and track.

He and his wife, Anna Lee, have two daughters, Barbara Ann, a student at Brigham Young university, Provo, Utah, and Leah, a pupil at George school.

Suffers Fracture

Paul Pollock, 540 West Schuylkill road, suffered a compound fracture of the left third finger Wednesday while at work at Westinghouse Electric Springfield. A heavy metal weight fell on the finger.

The wound was sewn with six stitches at Pottstown Memorial Medical center, north division.

ONCE HAD TREATMENT

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A German psychiatrist, Prof. Friederich Panse of Duesseldorf, testified here that Adolf Hitler once had psychiatric treatment for temporary blindness, claiming it was an aftermath of mustard-gas poisoning in World War I. Panse said examination showed instead that the blindness was induced by hysteria. He was a witness at a trial of three German doctors accused of sending thousands of mentally ill Germans to gas chambers.

Is Black Suitable For Wedding?

QUESTION: My husband and I have been invited to a late-afternoon wedding. After checking around, I've found out that guests will wear cocktail-type dresses. I have a black brocade dress with matching jacket and a small black velvet pillbox hat which I think will be perfectly fine to wear.

A friend was horrified to hear this. She said that guests should not wear black. I've heard that this applies only to members of the family. Who's correct? May I wear the black outfit if I want to?

Mrs. W.K.G.

ANSWER: It's true that close members of the immediate family do not wear black to a wedding.

However, there's no restriction as far as other guests are concerned. A black dress may be worn as long as it's suitable to the time and degree of formality.

White gloves should be worn however, rather than black, to brighten the outfit.

QUESTION: I'm never sure how I should introduce my husband to friends and acquaintances. Should I simply say "This is my husband," or "This is my husband, Mr. Smith?"

To people I know fairly well, like members of my club or neighbors he may not know, should he be introduced as "My husband, John" when they know me by my first name?

Mrs. S.C.

ANSWER: When introducing your husband to someone with whom you're on first-name terms, you'd say "Mrs. Jones, I'd like you to meet my husband, John." It would be incorrect to introduce him as "Mr. Smith" socially.

If the person is someone you know more formally as Mrs. Jones and she calls you Mrs. Smith, then you would simply introduce him as "My husband." She would then address him as Mr. Smith and he would call her Mrs. Jones.

While Mrs. Lewis cannot undertake to answer individual letters, she will use readers' questions in her column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Patricia Lewis in care of The Mercury.

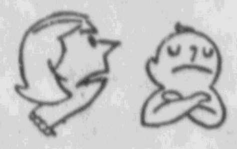
Amateur Psychologist Plays With Fire By Practicing on Mental Hypochondriac



. . . Helen Help Us!

Dear Helen:

Have you ever known a mental hypochondriac? Well, I know a boy (I'll call Jack) who has been talked into the idea that he is unbalanced. The girl who did this, I think, did it so he'd believe she is the only one who understands him.

All Jack has done ever since is feel sorry for himself. His marks have dropped and he is sometimes very inconsiderate, almost as if he feels he's not responsible for his actions.

I wish he'd stop underestimating himself since he'd be a great success in art, music or writing, if he wanted to be.

I'm afraid he's analyzed himself into failure. What can be done—SYMPATHY ON THE SIDELINES.

Dear Sympathy:

I can't think of anything more dangerous than amateur psychology practiced by the wrong person on a susceptible subject. But don't blame this boy's "unbalance" entirely on the girl.

A mental hypochondriac doesn't need a "doctor" to make him come down with everything in the book. He DOES need a real doctor to help him undrestand and control his weaknesses. — H.

Dear Helen:

I am a teenage boy and I am not happy. At school one of my classmates told me my father told a neighbor he would rather have her for a daughter than me for a son.

This neighbor is married and in her 20's. My father is over 50. This classmate said my Dad was probably just trying to impress a cute young girl, and it's true, he does make a big fuss over women.

I never cause him any trouble and I try in every way to please him as I know he wishes he had a girl instead of me. Isn't it normal for a parent to love his child whether it is a boy or girl?

I'm sure my mother would like me just as well, no matter what. My Dad is always telling me how lucky I am but it isn't very lucky when you know you can never be what he wants. —U.T.

Dear U:

"I know he (she) doesn't love me." Those six words have caused more trouble in family life than all the fightin' words put together — because they block off communication.

You don't know anything of the kind, chum! While you are brooding over your father's dislike, he's probbaly thinking, "Why can't I ever get close to that kid?" and wishing you were a riproarin', all-out BOY he could help out of trouble once in a while. His wanting a daughter doesn't mean he rejects you as a son! — H.

P.S. Sometimes you can try TOO hard to please. It makes parents feel uneasy. —H.

PERSONAL TO "DO I OR DON'T I LOVE HER?"—If you must ask an outsider that question, chances are you don't! —H.

Dear Helen:

A friend of mine is going to keep her baby, but she can't get married before it is born. She wants to know whether anyone will know by looking at the birth certificate whether it is illegitimate or not. Do they have a space for that, or can you tell by the maiden name of the girl on the certificate, or what—FRIEND

Dear Friend:

In your state (California) and about 14 others, birth certificates do not brand the baby "illegitimate." I'm sorry it can't be that way in ALL states!

Check your own and your parents' certificates, and you'll see they give the maiden name of the mother, whether married or not. This is standard procedure in iegal forms and implies nothing.

A woman could be married to the same man for 20 years, and her maiden name would still appear in her children's birth certificate.—H.

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Mrs. George Sands Speaks On Study of Handwriting

Royersford Golden Age Members Are Guests Of Woman's Club at Meeting In Masonic Hall

Mrs. George Sands, Lansdale, was guest speaker at the Royersford Woman's club meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Masonic hall. Her topic was "The Psychology of Handwriting."

Mrs. Sands explained how the slant of letters, lines, the size and shape of letters, width of the margins legibility and the weight are pressure. They all are indications of the writers personality.

Each member of the club rated herself on a paragraph of her own handwriting. She mentioned that handwriting doesn't stay the same as one grows older because personality changes. "A signature is only a showcase, it is not an indication of yourself."

Handwriting experts assist in the courts, work with psychologists and are consulted in industry to fit the individual into the right field.

Mrs. Edward Bach presided. Mrs. Paul Krasley announced a one dollar a day for South Viet Nam care will take place on Dec. 7. Twenty-two members of the club will be at a local store from 10 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. to take donations.

This money is to pay for milk and necessary food for the children of South Viet Nam. Mrs. Morey Williams gave the prayer.

Hostesses were Mrs. Milton Green and Mrs. Webster Diemer. Greeters were Mrs. John Geniesse and Mrs. Harvey Heinley. At the tea table was Mrs. Joseph Keiser and Mrs. Edgar Manser.

Guests attending were 16 members of Royersford Golden Age club. Fifty-eight members were in attendance.

The next session will be Dec. 14 at the hall. Guests will be the Laurel Garden club. Drama committee will present a play and the club chorus will sing.

LOCATE SPLINTERS

If a tiny splinter enters the skin of a child, touch the spot lightly with iodine. The wood absorbs the iodine and turns dark. The splinter then is easily located.

FEED HOUSE PLANTS

Chester County Members Place at 4 H State Show

Three members of Chester county 4H Horse and Pony clubs won placings at the State 4H Horse and Pony show in Harrisburg the past weekend including a Phoenixville girl.

Patricia Roens, Phoenixville, placed sixth in the hunter seat equitation not over jumps (Junior division) and Pamela Taws, Paoli, placed fifth in the English Pleasure (14 hands and under.)

The other Chester county girl, Gail Groy, Parkesburg, took three prizes in the competition. She won first place in the hunter hack (over 14 hands) and first in hunter seat equitation over jumps in the Senior division. Gail also placed second in the Senior division for grooming and showmanship.

Her trophy in the hunter hack class was sponsored by the Chester county 4H Horse and Pony clubs.

Several other 4H club members, who also competed in the state contest, were awarded participation ribbons. They were Anne Dunn, Chester Springs; Kathy Groce, Sadsburyville; Judy Horn, Chester Springs and Verne Shaw, Downingtown.

All riders were winners of county and district eliminations and were entered in competition with top riders from the other districts in the Commonwealth. Approximately 320 members and their horses from most counties were entered in classes at the State show.

The primary purposes of the 4H Horse and Pony program are to develop riding skills; gain self confidence; receive training in leadership and citizenship and learn the meaning of responsibility by caring for an animal.

The State 4H Horse and Pony show was a part of the Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition which was conducted in the State Farm Show building.

Your Horoscope

The Stars Say

By ESTRELLITA

For Today

Today's planetary influences urge tact in dealing with others. Keep your emotions under control and don't try to press unwanted opinions or advice upon others. In business and household matters, stick to routine. New undertakings not especially favored.

For The Birthday

If today is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, as of now—if you haven't already done so—you can begin to put plans involving business and financial matters into operation. These must be on a sound basis, however. Don't court risks you can ill afford. If using good judgement, monetary results by Dec. 10 should be most gratifying. Next good periods for fiscal affairs: The first three wekes in January, the first 10 days in February, early July, mid-August and throughout September and October. Best periods for job advancement: The next month, late January, throughout May, August, September and the first two weeks in October.

Your personal life will also be governed by generous influences with emphasis on romance in January, May and late August; and travel during mid-1967, although you may make short trips before then. One admonition, however; Don't put too much stock in sudden "romances" during September and October. They could prove disappointing. Life should run smoothly on the domestic scene during the next 12 months and, even if there should be some environmental change in June, do not be dismayed. It should prove beneficial, as you will learn later.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a fine mind, great perceptiveness and a versatility which embraces both the business and artistic fields.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ONE OF THE town's better-known TV writers has a wife who loves dogs, and introduces a new one to the family menage at regular intervals. The latest addition is a Saint Bernard known as "Tiny" and since he's only a pup, he really is tiny—hardly bigger than a Mack truck. Tiny has a slightly annoying habit of making off with things—slippers, pajama tops, pillows, wrist watches, and whatnot.

The other morning the TV writer looked for a script he had finished in stress the night before—and couldn't find it. He finally screamed to his wife, "It's that darn dog of yours again! I'll bet he's taken my script and buried it some place with all the other stuff that's missing from this house!"

"You're being even sillier than usual," his unruffled wife informed him. "You know very well Tiny can't read."

Aboard a bus, an elderly Irish lady pointed out an imposing Fifth Avenue mansion to her friend, and remarked, "That's where they pay me fifteen dollars every Wednesday afternoon to do nothing but sit with their cat for five hours. Isn't it a blessing of God that some people are born crazy!"

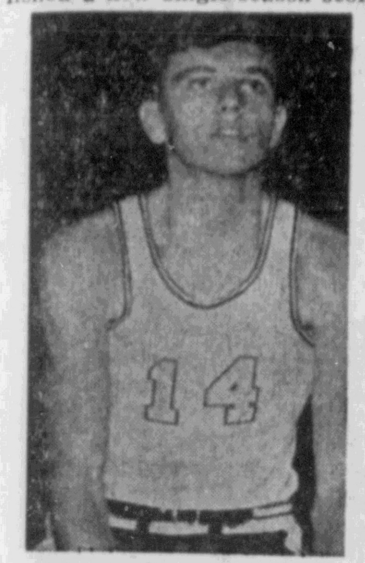
EPPEHIMER KEY VET AT SUSQUEHANNA

Former Pottstown Ace Set Scoring Marks For Crusaders

SUSQUEHANNA—Rick Eppehimer, former Pottstown High Basketball star, is one of six returning lettermen at Susquehanna University this season.

The Crusaders, who have been drilling since mid-October in preparation for their opening game with Albright College at Reading, Dec. 3, have a varsity roster of 11 players.

Eppehimer, a 6-2 junior, will be the key to coach John Barr's squad this year, which posted an 8-18 mark last season.



RICK EPPEHIMER

The local product established a new single-season scoring record at Susquehanna last season with 676 points, an average of 27 a game.

SUSQUEHANNA was expected to be much stronger this year, but the Crusaders suffered disastrous academic losses in June, four lettermen, three of whom were starters.

In addition, team captain Bill O'Brien, at starting guard for three seasons, was graduated.

Steelers' John Baker Is Ready for Cowboys

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Bill Austin said Wednesday defensive end John Baker is sufficiently recovered from injuries to face the Dallas Cowboys in a National Football League contest in Pittsburgh Sunday.

"Baker has been running and cutting well in the practices," said Austin, "and should be in perfect condition to disturb (quarterback Don) Meredith and the Cowboys on Sunday."

Baker, a mainstay of the Steeler defense, has been sidelined since Sept. 25.

Even without Baker last weekend, Pittsburgh kept the potent St. Louis Cardinals from scoring a touchdown in a 30-9 upset.

Bill Bradley Scores 14 Points But Team Loses

OXFORD, England (AP) — Austin Robbins of the University of Tennessee scored 26 points for Simmental Wednesday night to lead the Italian team to a 70-69 exhibition basketball victory over Oxford University.

The Oxford team included Bill Bradley, former Princeton star, and John Ritch, former star for the West Point Cadets.

Ritch was high scorer for Oxford with 21 points. Bradley had 14.

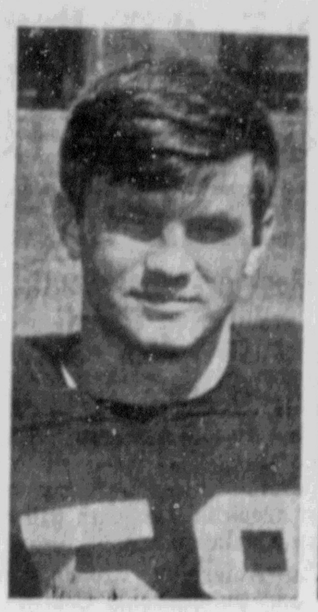
Five Area Graduates Played For Millersville This Year

John Johnson

Joe Dallas



Ken Kulakowsky

Tom Rapchinski

Roger Bauer

MILLERSVILLE—Millersville State college finished with a 4-5 record this season, 2-4 in Pennsylvania State College Athletic Conference, but the Black and Gold will be hoping for a better season next year, and four area ball players will be counted on heavily to carry much of the load.

In all, five area products played ball at Millersville this season with only one, Tom Rapchinski, former Pottstown High star, the only senior.

Rapchinski, a 6-0, 200 pound end, was the team's captain and a good one according to the coaching staff headed by George Katchmer.

Line coach Gene Groff called Rapchinski a real hard-nosed ball player. He was outstanding on defense for three seasons, prior to this season when he switched to offense.

IN MILLERSVILLE'S final game, against non-league opponent Curry, Rapchinski scored on a 57 yard pass from Gary Collins in the team's, 22-0 win.

John Johnson, a graduate of Schwenksville High school, was a member of the varsity as a sophomore this year.

A 5-10, 202 pounder, he played offensive guard for the Marauders.

Coaches describe him as a boy who has plenty of aggressiveness but needs more experience. He is expected to see much more action next year.

JOE DALLAS, a graduate of St. Pius X High school, Pottstown, is a junior at Millersville, and one of the team's best breakaway runners. He played regularly this past season and earned a letter.

Coach Katchmer says that despite his size, Dallas has measured up in college ball as well as fellows much bigger. Dallas is 5-8, 165 pounds.

His brother Leo is a member of this year's undefeated St. Pius X squad.

Two Boyertown High school graduates are also members of the squad.

ROGER BAUER, a 6-0, 185 pound sophomore, was a starting defensive end for the Marauders. Line coach Groff says he has the ability and is a hard-nosed player.

Ken Kulakowsky, a 6-0, 180 pound junior, did not play football at Boyertown, but he is developing as an end on both offense and defense.

This past season he was bothered by a knee injury, but he is expected to see lots of action next year.

Dodgers Make Poorest Showing Ever In Japan

SHIZUOKA, Japan (AP) — "Japanese baseball has made remarkable progress in 10 years," Manager Walt Alston of Los Angeles said Wednesday after the Dodgers completed their 18-game tour of Japan with the poorest record ever by an American team.

The Dodgers' 7-3 defeat Wednesday by the Yomiuri Giants, Japan's 1966 champions, was their eighth of the tour and fourth straight. They won nine and tied one. The 1956 Brooklyn Dodgers lost four games in Japan — the previous high for a U.S. team.

Los Angeles' record against the Yomiuri team was 3-4.

"The Giants are stronger than a Triple A team," Alston said. "With three or four more good pitchers, I'm sure they would give a good account of themselves in the U.S. major leagues."

The Dodgers' star pitchers, Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, did not accompany the team and shortstop Maury Wills, troubled by a leg injury, left the tour earlier this month.

"We realize that the Dodgers were at a disadvantage without the services of Koufax and Drysdale," said Yomiuri manager Tetsuhara Kawakami. "But they played good baseball offensively and defensively, and they made a good impression on the Japanese fans with their fine sportsmanship and hustling plays."

Sadaharu Oh, who hit 48 homers during Japan's regular season, starred for Yomiuri in the final game called after seven innings because of darkness. He belted a grand slam homer off Joe Moeller in the first inning. It was Oh's fifth homer off Dodger pitching.

Trailing 5-0 in the sixth, Los Angeles rallied for three runs on four hits, including a double by Lou Johnson and a home run by Al Ferrara.

However, the Giants scored two more runs in the seventh off lefty Nick Willhite.

Humphrey Forms Ten Man Track And Field Board

NEW YORK (AP) — Another step toward solving the long-simmering feud between the AAU and NCAA was taken Wednesday when Vice President Humphrey's special arbitration board announced the formation of a 10-man committee "to solve the problems of track and field."

Theodore Kheel, chairman of Humphrey's board and a New York Attorney with wide experience in resolving disputes, said he had "expectations that many of the problems of making track and field more effective will be achieved by the committee.

"This is the first time all interested parties in track and field have constituted one committee in which all the problems in track and field can be considered.

"We can't say it's the answer to all the problems but it may be."

The new committee is not limited in its scope but Kheel said that it will consider such specific issues as scheduling, selection of coaches and managers for overseas and international meets and procedures for issuing invitations to competitors in domestic meets and invitations to foreign athletes.

Those have been some of the key issues in the dispute between the Amateur Athletic Union, long time sanctioning representative in the United States, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which governs the nation's college sports programs.

Trojan—Falcon JV Game Is Off

Pottstown High school's junior varsity Trojans and counterparts from Pottsgrove will not play their season ending match Friday, Nov. 18th at Franklin Field, as was previously arranged.

After a bit of consultation with each other, both of the JV coaches, Dave Gerber of Pottstown and Bob Rheel of Pottsgrove, agreed to call off the upcoming game, with no indication of rescheduling.

This means that both squads will have ended their seasons this past Monday afternoon. Pottsgrove won their clash with Owen J. Roberts 32-0, to give them a finishing record of 3-5, while the Trojans, though losing to Spring-Ford 8-6, wound up their 1966 season just opposite of their Falcon adversaries with a 5-3 slate.

The only comment made on Friday's cancelation was, "It was just a matter of mutual agreement."

DALLAS LEADS IN STATISTICS

Cowboys Set Pace in 4 Of 6 Offensive Categories

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys hold the lead in four of the six major team categories including total offense and total defense in the National Football League, the latest figures revealed Wednesday.

The Cowboys, with five games remaining, are setting the pace in total offense with an average gain of 418.4 yards and in total defense with a yield of 235.3 yards a game.

Dallas also is No. 1 in passing offense with a 265.8 yard average and rushing defense, 73.4 yards.

Williams' Share Of Fight Purse Held Up In Court

HOUSTON (AP)—Earl Gilliam, promoter of the Cassius Clay-Cleveland Williams heavyweight championship fight, asked the court Wednesday to decide who should get Williams' share of the purse.

Clay scored a third-round technical knockout over Williams Monday night in the title fight in the Astrodome.

Gilliam, head of Texas Boxing Enterprises, filed a petition of interpleader in the district court of Judge Warren P. Cunningham.

The suit was filed against Williams and his wife; his manager, Hugh Benbow and K. S. (Bud) Adams and A&B Boxing Enterprises, Inc.

Gilliam said he was instructed by Williams prior to the fight to pay the fighter 20 per cent of the net gate, which after state taxes and federal income taxes, amounted to $69,357.28.

However, Mrs. Irene Williams, wife of the challenger, also advised Gilliam she had a valid power of attorney to act for Williams and Gilliam was instructed to pay her.

LA Wins Behind West, LaRusso

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Scoring 36 points each, Rudy La Russo and Jerry West paced the Los Angeles Lakers to a 124-112 victory over the Cincinnati Royals in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

The game was see-saw most of the way and tied five times during the second period which ended 58-all.

The Royals, led by Oscar Robertson and Happy Hairston with 24 points each, got off to a 2-0 lead in the first minute but shot on, 24-11, order. West, Walt Hazard and La Russo combined to provide a 13-point cushion, 24-11, with 4:54 remaining. West tallied four straight and Hazard six — after a two-pointer by the Royals' Jerry Lucas — and La Russo added four more.

Together the trio accounted for 26 of the Lakers' 32 points as the period ended, with the visitors hitting 51 per cent from the floor.

Robertson came to life in the third to help the Royals gain a brief 67-66 lead, but Los Angeles again shot to a 71-67 margin.

The game again was tied at 71, 73 and 75-all before the Royals, with the help of two free-throws by the "Big O" forged ahead. They kept the advantage until with only 32 seconds left, La Russo hit again and the period ended with the Lakers ahead 89-88.

The final quarter was an all Laker show, the visitors scoring eight straight at one time and with only 2:10 remaining moving to a 13-point advantage

Arfons Delays World Speed Record Attempt

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Art Arfons changed his mind Wednesday about trying to set a world land speed record in his jet-powered "Green Monster."

Brisk winds and lack of charges to blast loose his parachute braking assembly forced the Akron, Ohio, auto racer to postpone until Thursday any further runs through a measured mile and kilometer on these western Utah salt flats.

Arfons has been on the flats since Monday testing his car. He has made three attempts at the 600.601 mile per hour record set last year by Craig Breedlove of Los Angeles, but so far has reached only 555 m.p.h.

76ers Continue Rolling With 117-108 Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers uncorked their offensive drive in the last 14 minutes, led by Wilt Chamberlain, Hal Greer and Lucius Jackson, to defeat the New York Knickerbockers 117-108 Wednesday night.

It was the 76ers' sixth straight National Basketball Association victory.

The Knicks, battered and beaten by the 76ers Tuesday night in New York, played the Eastern Division leaders even up through almost three periods. But after Dave Stallworth had tied it up at 77 with 2:15 left in the third quarter, Philadelphia got rolling.

Greer, who led all scorers with 35, pumped in one, Chambellain dropped in a foul and the 76ers were off.

At the end of the quarter, Philadelphia led 86-79 and built up a 12-point margin early in the final period.

Chamberlain ended with 28, followed by Jackson with 13.

Walt Bellamy was high for the losers with 20 while Stallworth had 17.

HAWKS WIN 4TH STRAIGHT

St. Louis Moves Within One Half Game of Leader

DETROIT (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks ran their winning string to four straight by outbattling Detroit in the fourth quarter and defeating the Pistons 104-101 in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

St. Louis, moving within one-half game of Western Division leader San Francisco, gave Detroit its fourth consecutive loss and seventh setback in the Pistons' last eight outings.

After letting a 12-point lead in the second period evaporate into a two-point deficit late in the third, the Hawks broke an 85-85 tie early in the fourth on a floor-length dribble for a basket by Joe Caldwell.

They quickly boomed in front by seven points.

Baskets by Bill Bridges, Gene Tormohlen and Len Wilkins, plus strong offensive rebounding, helped the Hawks pull away.

However, the Pistons rallied again. They slipped to within a point of the Hawks before two baskets and a free throw by Bridges restored St. Louis to a five-point command. The Hawks managed to hold on the rest of the way.

The Hawks had six players in double figures, topped by Bridges with 22 points.

Joe Strawder had 19 and Dave Bing 18 for Detroit.

Eastern League Votes Split Into Divisions

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of the Eastern Baseball League voted Wednesday to split the league into two divisions next season if the major league affiliates approve.

A spokesman said the East Division would consist of Reading, York and Williamsport, all in Pennsylvania, and Elmira, N.Y., and the West, Binghamton, N.Y., Pittsfield, Mass., Pawtucket, R.I., and Waterbury, Conn.

Directors also readmitted Reading and Williamsport to the league. Neither had fielded a team last season.

Rankin Johnson of Williamsport was re-elected president of the Class AA league for a seventh term. A spokesman said Johnson got the nod over To my Richardson, also of Wiliamsport and former International League president and head of the Eastern League for many years.

Jerry Waring of Pawtucket was named league vice president, succeeding Joseph Buzas of Pittsfield.

No voting results were disclosed.

Directors set April 22 as the opening date for the league teams.

Richardson To Scout

Bobby Richardson, who retired at the close of the baseball season, has signed a contract to scout for the New York Yankees through 1970.

AP Guesser Says Michigan State 19, Notre Dame 15

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame vs. Michigan State —this is the game of the season, of the decade and perhaps of the post-war era. It's enough to sap the prognosticator's adrenalin dry.

Notre Dame has the superior passing threat in sophomores Terry Hanratty and Jim Seymour and the more explosive runner in Nick Eddy, who has four runs this year of between 51 and 85 yards.

Both teams have big, beefy and quick defensive units. Michigan State's Bubba Smith, at 6-foot-7 and 283 pounds, towers a little over Notre Dame's Kevin Hardy, 6-5 and 270, but you get the idea.

The Irish have given up only one touchdown in the last six games while Michigan State yielded 19 points last week to Indiana. State has a good but unsensational passer in Jimmy Raye, a dangerous ball-carrier in Clint Jones and an excellent pass-receiver in Gene Washington.

Notre Dame has everything Michigan State has and then some. It is ranked No. 1 nationally and is a three-point favorite. Anybody with a gran of sense would pick Notre Dame, so—

Michigan State 19, Notre Dame 15: There's more to a football game than statistics and emotion. We think Michigan State, at home, will react better to the immense pressure of the occasion.

Southern California 21, UCLA 10: The Trojans are eager to avenge last year's unlucky loss and UCLA has lost its passing ace, Gary Beban.

North Carolina 14, Duke 7: The Blue Devils still are glassy-eyed from the walloping they took a week ago at South Bend.

Arkansas 25, Texas Tech 7: The Razorbacks start making reservations for Dallas's Cotton Bowl.

Stanford 22, California 14: The rest of the country may have its eyes on East Lansing, but this is the Big Game for Northern Californians.

Baylor 17, Southern Methodist 10: The bottom dropped out for SMU in the Arkansas game.

Colorado 25, Air Force 14: The Cowboys have averaged better than 25 points a game in their last four games.

Harvard 16, Yale 14: The Crimson get a taste of the Ivy League title.

Irish Agree, Michigan State Hits Much Harder

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's beef trust, the No. 1 defensive unit which has grudgingly yielded only one touchdown this year, agrees unanimously that Michigan State hits quicker and harder than a year ago and will be tough to keep away from the goal line Saturday.

"Jimmy Raye is a quicker quarterback than Steve Juday was in 1965," said linebacker Jim Lynch, the team's 225-pound captain and defensive signal caller. "He's mean on roll-outs. He can kill you."

Tackle Pete Duranko added his 235 pounds to the same opinion, and echoes came Wednesday from other members of the rugged Irish forward wall, including 270-pound Kevin Hardy, 230-pound Alan Page and 220-pound Tom Rhoads.

We have to do more than stop their great running game — they have three of the best backs in the country in Clint Jones, Dwight Lee and Bob Apisa," said Duranko. "Look the other way a minute and Rye will be hitting Gene Washington or Al Brenner wtth a pass that will hurt you."

The top-ranked Fighting Irish, from the lowliest second-stringer to Head Coach Ara Parseghian, are refusing to be blase about the No. 2 Spartans, whom they play in the college football game of the year at East Lansing, Mich.

"These are two well-balanced teams, alike in many ways," Parseghian, sitting underneath a picture of the late Knute Rockne, told his customary noon press conference.

"Both have good running games, unusually strong defenses and excellent passing. It will be a real head-knocker, decided on breaks. The team that makes the fewest mistakes will win."

Parseghian also praised Raye, State's 171-pound quarterback who has completed 55 of 103 passes for 968 yards and 10 touchdowns.

"I regard Raye as the most underrated passer in the country," the Notre Dame coach said. "We have been much impressed in the films we've seen of recent games. He is a fine passer, has two outstanding receivers in Washington and Brenner and can run if he has to."

The Iriish, with their highly publicized sophomore passing combination of Terry Hanratty and Jim Seymour, have been a 3-4½ point favorite. The point spread at first was three, went to 4½ early in the week and dropped back to four Wednesday.

Parseghian said Seymour, the 6-foot-4, 205-pound end who hurt his left ankle in the Oklahoma game Oct. 22, would be 100 per cent fit for Michigan State as would his explosive senior halfback, Nick Eddy, who has had a bruised left shoulder.

Asked if he felt that a top-flight performance by Notre Dame would bring a victory, Parseghian said:

"I wish I thought so. I'd sleep better. But, no. These are two good football teams. The game can go either way."

Lynch heads a defense that has allowed only 175.5 yards a game, posted five shutouts in the last six games and yielded only one touchdown, that in the first game against Purdue. The other three scores this year against the Irish came on a 95-yard run with a fumble, a blocked kick and a score against the reserve unit.

'It's a record we're proud of," said Lynch. "We would like to preserve it against Michigan State, but we know it won't be easy. They are very quick and very versatile."

Woozen Winner of 45th Demoiselle Stakes at Aqueduct Race Track

NEW YORK (AP) — J. Graham Brown's Woozem easily won the 45th running of the $28,900 Demoiselle Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at Aqueduct race track Wednesday.

The daughter of Hail To Reason-Juliets Nurse, handled by Kenny Knapp, sprinted to the front at the start and was never menaced for the mile run. She scored by eight lengths over On The Carpet, who nosed Amherst. With A Flair faded in the stretch to finish a half length out of the money.

Woozem was clocked in the good time of 1:35 3-5, fastest since the stake made eight furlongs four years ago.

Solid choice in the betting with the crowd of 23,676, Woozem paid $5, $3.40 and $3. On The Carpet paid $8 and $5.60. Amherst was $10.40 to show.

Woozem earned a net purse of $18,784 for her owner, a Louisville, Ky., hotel owner. It was the second stakes of the meeting for the Brown stable. Gallant Romeo, half brother of Woozem, won the Vosburgh Handicap on Nov. 8.

Run Fool Run, a two-year-old colt bred in Maryland, stormed from behind in the final quarter to overtake Native Uprising and win the $6,600 Back Again Purse at Laurel.

The race was for 2-year-olds exhibited in the Maryland Horse Breeders Association's 1965 yearling show.

Run Fool Run was ridden by Noel Turcotte. The colt ran the six furlongs in 1:13 and paid $27, $5.40 and $2.20. Native Uprising returned $2.80 and $2.20 with A Ha Brooks $2.20 to show.

A 2-year-old longshot, Chris P. won the featured eighth race at Narragansett.

Jockey Norman Mercier booted Chris P. to the front early and held off all challengers for victory by nearly two lengths after a 1:13 3-5 trip over six furlongs.

The winner paid $34.20, $13.20 and $11.40. Second place Fair Robert returned $11.20 and $9. Head High was worth $5 to show.

Rochester's Gamble Moves Up in Point Race

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Gamble of the Rochester Americans has moved into contention for first place in the American Hockey League scoring race.

Gamble picked up six points last week to move into third place with 22 points, just two back of second place Wayne Hicks of the Quebec Aces and only three back of the leader, Gordon Labossiere, also of Quebec.

The weekly league statistics, released Wednesday, showed Labossiere with 25 points and Hicks with 24. Gamble is the league's No. 1 goal scorer with 12 but had 10 assists to 16 for Labossiere and 13 for Hicks. Hershey's Mike Nykoluk leads in assists with 17.

The scoring leaders:

Paul Hornung Doubtful Again for This Week

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Halfback Paul Hornung remained a doubtful starter Wednesday as the Green Bay Packers prepared for Sunday's National Football League clash with the Chicago Bears.

Hornung has not played in the past three Green Bay games. Coach Vince Lombardi said he was reluctant to use Hornung because of a shoulder injury sustained when the halfback scored a touchdown against the Bears in an earlier meeting.

The veteran back picked up an additional injury earlier this week when he broke his nose in a practice session. The nose injury was not considered serious.

"His shoulder is still bothering him," said Lombardi. "I suppose that if he had to play, he could, but I'm not going to risk a serious injury."

Elijah Pitts has replaced Hornung and has played well in all three games.

2 Louisiana Men Charged With Fix

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three Baton Rouge men paid two Louisiana State University football players $1,200 in an attempt to fix six football games this fall, a Federal Grand Jury charged Tuesday.

The three men, all arrested by the FBI last month on similar charges, were Joseph Lee Nolan, 26; Samuel F. Comeaux, 25, and Samuel J. Graziano, 26.

The indictment charged Graziano met with LSU backs Jim Dousay and Gawain DiBetta at his home Oct. 13 "and handed over $1,200 to the two football players."

LSU Coach Charle McClendon said at the time the three men were arrested that DiBetta, Dousay and, a third player, Billy Masters, had cooperated for more than a year with the FBI in the investigation. Masters was not mentioned in the indictment.

The first count of the indictment alleged that the defendants conspired from mid-August to Oct. 18 to put into effect a scheme to influence by bribery LSU football games with, South Carolia, Rice, Miami, Texas A&M, Kentucky and Florida.

LSU, defeated South Carolina 28-12, Miami 10-8, and Kentucky 30-0, lost to Rice 17-15 and Florida 28-7 and tied Texas A&M 7-7.

Counts two and three of the indictment charged the defendnats with attempting to carry into effect their conspiracy in connection with the Texas A&M and Kentucky games.

Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on conviction.

Paper Says UCLA Using Signals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some very mysterious signals have emanated from the UCLA bench during football games this season, the Santa Monica Evening Outlook reported Wednesday.

It speculated that "almost half the Bruin offensive plays this season have been relayed to the field" without new players being inserted into the lineup. The story added that NCAA rules forbid such communications from the sidelines.

A spokesman for the Bruin athletic department had no comment.

The story by Steve Bisheff described "an interesting study in football hieroglyphics," saying:

"One coach covers his eye, the other puts both hands to his stomach like he has a bellyache, and another places both hands on his head, as if he were surrendering or something.

"Other signals include the right hand held straight out and parallel to the ground, one hand held over the nose, both hands held up to the neck in a weird choking mannerism, and a left hand held directly under the heart."

Quarterback Gary Beban said he didn't know of any such signals, the story said.

Daugherty Says Psychology Plays Important Part

EAST LANSING (AP) — Illustrating the importance of psychology in football, Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty tells this story of MSU's 1956 game against Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.:

Notre Dame invited all its living All-Americas back to campus for ceremonies which also gave attention to some departed Irish football heroes, such as George Gipp.

Some of the All-Americas were around the practice field as the undefeated Spartans went through their final workout, and the much impressed MSU players were in a subdued mood afterward.

The mood persisted into Saturday's game but, with a break, Michigan State managed to keep the score tied 7-7 in the first half.

Daughtery didn't know what to say, so he asked the center about a bad pass on a punt play. The pass went only about two feet.

"I don't know coach," the center replied, "It was as if someone had his hand on the ball."

"Do you suppose it was George Gipp reaching up?" the second string center ventured.

"Don't be sacrilegious," Daugherty replied. "You mean reaching down, don't you?"

That shattered the subdued mood.

Michigan State has an annual award for the team humorist and Daughterty invited the players to compete for it on the spot by telling their best jokes.

The fans seated near the dressing room exit couldn't figure it out when the Spartans appeared for the second half, laughing uproriously.

But MSU went on to win 47-14.

Chargers Pick Up All-American Arch Matsos

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The San Diego Chargers announced Tuesday they have obtained Arch Matsos, former All-American Football League linebacker who was released recently by the Denver Broncos.

The Chargers' regular middle linebacker, Chuck Allen, suffered a broken ankle and isn't expected to see action until possibly the last two games of the season.

Matsos, 31, is a seven-year veteran who has performed for three other AFL teams—Buffalo, Oakland and Denver. The Broncos cut him loose after he walked out of the camp because of a demotion to second string.

Hempfield, Mt. Lebanon To Meet In AA Playoff

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The football committee of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League WPIAL decided Monday that Hempfield and Mount Lebanon will meet in a playoff game for the Class AA football championship.

The game will be played at Pitt Stadium on Nov. 26.

The Class B title will be decided Friday night at Jeannette in a game between Avella and Leechburg.

Sto-Rox was declared the winner of the Class A title.

Ortega Allows Homers

Pitcher Phil Ortega of the Washington Senators holds one distinction he would rather forget about. He was the only major league pitcher who allowed two first-inning grand slam home runs during 1966.

Willie Horton of Detroit hit Ortega for a four-run homer in a June 22 night game. Four nights later rookie Joe Foy of the Boston Red Sox crashed a grand slam against Ortega. Both drives came in the first inning.

ENTIRE U.S. TO SEE BIG COLLEGE GAME

Most Areas of South Will See Taped Version

NEW YORK (AP) — The Notre Dame-Michigan State game will be televised all over the United States Saturday, but most areas in the South will receive a delayed tape.

The American Broadcasting Co. and the National Collegiate Athletic Association announced Wednesday that in response to numerous protests against a blackout of the game in some areas of the country, the following plan had been devised:

The entire Northeast, Upper Midwest and Southwest portions of the country will receive the game live as originally planned. The Far West and Northwest also will see the game live instead of the Kentucky-Tennessee game originally scheduled to be shown.

That part of the South in the Central time zone — including Texas, Oklahoma, most of Kansas and points east — will see the game on a delayed basis starting at 5 p.m., CST.

The part of the South in the Eastern zone — including Maryland, Kentucky and points south — will see the game at 4:30 p.m., EST, also taped.

The delayed tape, according to the NCAA television committee, which approved the plan Wednesday, "precludes further signifcant damage to other college games being played Saturday."

The NCAA television plan prohibits any school from two national television appearances in any one year. The Notre Dame-Purdue game earlier this year appeared nationally.

Herb Dorricott, of Colorado Western State College, the NCAA TV Committee chairman, said the decision did not establish a precedent for changing the television schedule.

But, he said, "The Notre Dame-Michigan State game has drawn the most important and widespread interest in college football in a decade and is completely unique."

All areas of the country will see two college football games Saturday. The East, Midwest and Southwest will see UCLA-Southern California in addition to Notre Dame-Michigan State. The South will see Kentucky-Tennessee and the Far West will see California-Stanford.

Bobby Hull Saves 2-2 Tie For Black Hawks

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull's power play goal midway through the second period gave the Chicago Black Hawks a 2-2 tie against the New York Rangers Wednesday night.

The deadlock stretched New York's unbeaten streak to four games and moved the Rangers into a second place tie with idle Toronto, three points behind the Black Hawks.

The two teams battled through almost 30 minutes of scoreless hockey after Hull's seventh goal of the season tied the score with New York's Orland Kurtenbach sitting out a two-minute penalty.

Hull turned Chico Maki's goal mouth pass in for the knotter. Phil Espositio also assisted.

New York's Rod Gilbert opened the scoring with the game barely two minutes old. His eighth goal of the season came on a scramble after Bobby Hull fell across Chicago goaltender Glenn Hall's legs.

Wally Boyer tied it for the Black Hawks midway through the opening period when he lifted a 10-footer past New York goalie Ed Giacomin.

Bob Nevin made it 2-1 New York with 1½ minutes left in the first period, when he beat Hall on a screened shot.

Third period — None. Penalties — Neilson 11:29; Stapleton 13:42.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWO YEARS— Lehigh and Lafayette meet Saturday at Easton in the 102nd game of football's most-active rivalry. Top threats for Lehigh this year are two underclassmen, sophomore quarterback Rich Laubach, left, and junior end Rich Miller. Laubach has completed 91 passes this season for an Engineer record, while Miller holds Lehigh marks for most catches in a single game (13), season (54) and career (90). His 54 receptions this year ranks him high among the national small-college leaders in that category.

Dunaway Named Lineman of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Dunaway of the Buffalo Bills numbers among his most prized possessions 1,000 Indian arrowheads, several books of Omar Khayyam's poetry and one dirty laundry bag.

Right now the laundry bag is probably the last thing he'd part with.

The laundry bag contains the football the 297-pound defensive tackle lugged 72 yards for the first touchdown of his career last Sunday, breaking open a tight game and bringing the Bills a 14-3 victory over the New York Jets.

Perfect Play

And for the perfectly executed maneuver in breaking through the New York line and blocking a field goal attempt, Dunaway Wednesday was named the Defensive Player of the Week in the American Football League by The Associated Press.

The football, tucked in the laundry bag for safe-keeping, now will take a position of honor on the Dunaway cattle ranch in Sandy Hook, Miss., along with the arrowheads and poetry books.

But there's little doubt in Dunaway's mind that it was the hardest thing he's ever come by.

"I got all those arrowheads off my farm," said Dunaway. "I just picked them up after plowing. They probably would be worth something but I haven't had time to classify them yet.

Reads Poetry

"As for the poetry books, Omar Khayyam just happens to be one of my favorites. I've got a couple of different translations and I named my son, Jason Khayyam, after him."

And the touchdown?

"When that ball bounced up," said Dunaway, "it was just like a biscuit hanging there — and you know how I like my eats."

Dunaway broke through with the Bills leading 7-3, blocking Jim Turner's field goal try, grabbing the ball and churning straight down the middle of the field escorted by two Buffalo defenders. And he heard those footsteps.

Didn't Look

"I heard some activity behind me and I thought one of those fast backs was gaining on me. But I didn't want to look. You should never look back. You had better keep churning or you'll go flat on your face, so I just watched the goalposts in front of me and kept running right for them."

When he returned to the bench, he still had a tight grip on the ball and wouldn't return it to the officials. Even as he was being pounded on the back by teammates, he was putting the ball in the laundry bag and tying a tight knot around the neck.

And he claimed he wasn't tired after the run.

"No, I wasn't tired," he said emphatically. "But I'll tell you it's tougher getting congratulated than playing the game."

Did any one say anything specific to him that he could remember?

"Yeah," Dunaway replied. "John Tracey told me to pull in my belly because I got to go out and play some defense soon."

Dunaway had done that all afternoon long, getting the nod in the voting over one of his own teammates, defensive back Tom Janik, who held New York flanker Don Maynard to two receptions and tipped away two passes that seemed headed for touchdowns.

Also nominated were three members of Kansas City's defensive backfield — Johnny Robinson, Fred Williamson and Bobby Hunt — and Boston Defensive back Tom Hennessey.

NO SHRIMP—Is Buffalo Bills tackle Jim Dunaway at 6-4 and 285 pounds, as he accepts a plate of shrimp gumbo. Dunaway has been named the AFL's Defensive Player of the Week for his fine efforts in the Bills recent game with New York, in which he picked up a blocked Jets' field-goal attempt, and raced 72 yards for a touchdown. Dunaway is a four year veteran with Buffalo.

Sherman Could Be Key To State-Pitt Clash

PITTSBURGH (AP)—If Penn State beats Pitt Saturday, it's a good bet the hero will be quarterback Tom Sherman.

That's the way it went in four of the last five games between the Nittany Lions and Panthers—the standout play of a quarterback was decisive.

Pitt figures it must contain Sherman, a junior from Rimersburg, if it's to upset the Lions, favored by 13 points.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno knows Sherman must get some help — especially better blocking up front — for State to win and extend to 28 its string of seasons without a losing record.

"Sherman is a fine runner and a good passer, although he has been inconsistent the past few games," says Pitt assistant coach Frank Cignetti, who scouted the Nittany Lions for three weeks. "State's passing attack can be explosive. State's offense is very dangerous if Sherman has a good day."

Sherman had his best days this season against West Virginia and California, and the Lions had an easy time of it, rolling up 71 points, 61 first downs and 928 yards total offense in those two victories.

"We've got to throw the ball well (against Pitt)," Paterno said Wednesday. "We will have to handle their blitzing and give him time to throw.

"Pitt has played the run awfully well — even against the real good teams like Miami and Syracuse. They're better than people realize and nobody's made much yardage on them inside."

Last week Penn State's offensive line was unable to contain the quick, aggressive defenders of Georgia Tech and they swarmed all over Sherman, forcing him into his worst game —2 completions in 14 attempts for 25 yards.

JUNIOR HIGH PUPILS TAKE OVER BOROUGH

Griesemer from Central went to borough hall to direct protection in the borough for about an hour, while the other pupils executed the offices that had devolved upon them.

But after a lunch, treat of the Optimists, Assistant Borough Manager Thomas J. Harwood Jr. and Optimist Clyde T. Miller took the pupils on a tour of borough facilities.

They were particularly impressed by the modern water plant, remarking on its sophisticated operation and cheerful atmosphere.

The temporary officials also visited the sewage plant and Philadelphia Steam Fire Engine company.

A mock council session had to be cancelled when a delay in bus transportation caused the entourage to return to borough hall too late in the day.

Change Meeting Lead to Long Friendship impressed the Duffy family with his energy and spirit.

"He never complained," says Mrs. Duffy.

"He never spoke ill of anyone, and once said a remarkable thing.

"He said, 'I wouldn't trade one minute of my 91 years.'

"To see a person who has come so far without regrets is truly rare."

But the distance of the journey took its toll.

DeMuth's hearing and eyesight were failing: the simple things that most people take for granted were going, and among the few sustaining things left were March's visits.

The visits were hardly a duty for March.

"He is a frank man," says March, summing up his affection for DeMuth.

"But what can you say about friendship; it's an intangible, a casual thing. You can't describe it too precisely or melodramatically."

But you can get a little melodramatic about the spirit of a man who, sick, weak, and 91 years old, says to his landlady, "I'll be coming back, don't worry."

That's what DeMuth said to Mrs. Duffy before he drove to the hospital with his friend, William March.

Waitress Serves Happiness Menu; Ex-Boxer Downs Gloom With Smiles

Johnson restaurant here 15 years before starting with the Hotel Shuler 3½ years ago, had few embarrassing moments when she learned she won the silver plate.

The judges overheard her good-natured kidding of the contest, telling other waitresses, "We smile all the time, but I bet we never win."

It was already decided then that she was the perfect example of a smiling, helpful waitress.

Elwood Angstadt, the Optimist smile chairman, said another dimension has been added to the contest, which is in its 18th year and co-sponsored by the Downtown Pottstown Business association for the first time.

"Friendly Store" awards will go to three DPBA members at the end of the week, Angstadt revealed. One will be for stores with up to six employes, another for those of six to 15 employes, and the third for stores of 15 or more employes.

DURING THEIR week-long search for friendly, cordial, helpful and smiling employes, the Optimist judges have been keeping a point tabulation on the service they receive in each store, he explained.

Several of these judges, who made their decisions for Wednesday's winners on Tuesday, were in the Hotel Shuler Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Snyder and her fellow waitresses were reading The Mercury and commenting on the smile winners.

"We smile every day and never win anything," they overheard Mrs. Snyder say. They had to smile themselves, knowing she was a winner.

Another waitress remarked that she didn't think waitresses were eligible for the award.

"I wonder if I'll win if I walk up High street with a big smile," Mrs. Snyder said.

But she didn't have to. She smiles and waits on the public with a smile in every action, said Angstadt.

"The waitresses in downtown Pottstown in the morning are about the most jovial group of all," said Angstadt. "And the service the judges got was wonderful.

MRS. SNYDER is the wife of Albert Snyder, an employe of Cline and Reigh company, Pottstown paving contractor.

They live at Pottstown Route 20 and have a son, James, just home from the U.S. Navy, and a daughter, Janet, Mrs. Robert McKee, also Pottstown Route 20, who is a secretary for the law firm of Wells, Campbell, Reynier and Yohn.

"Smiling just comes naturally to me," said Mrs. Snyder. "I've been smiling all my life—it makes life easier, helps your morale. I do it without thinking.

"Customers? Most of them are very considerate and almost always nice to you," she philosophized.

Melchiorre has divided his adult career between the boxing profession and the men's clothing business.

A Norristown native, he now lives in Jeffersonville. He and his wife have a son, Donald, and a daughter Barbara, wife of Carmine Carbone, and four grandchildren.

When he was a young man he won 90 of 112 professional fights. Then he managed fighters, helped youngsters learn how to defend and handle themselves, and otherwise remained around the profession.

Prior to his employment with Adams, he was manager for 12 years of the former Penn State store, a haberdashery at 319 High street.

"This is certainly a surprise to me to win this award," said Melchiorre, who may have bigger trophies at home but none more prized.

"I guess I'm a friendly person when I wait on customers. They deserve a smile," he said. "Because they are your guests in your store and it's up to you to help them find what they want."

Angstadt said there was no doubt in the judges' minds that Melchiorre and Mrs. Snyder were winners.

And there are plenty of candidates for the four remaining awards to be given today and tomorrow.

posedly carved of ivory. "A lot of them are plastic. Some even are made in Hong Kong or Japan.

"So the pressure of being in a foreign land never lets up. The things you get from home are very welcome," he said simply.

Moyer said the PXs at his bases had plenty of grooming aids, but other GIs have told of razors and shaving cream being limited.

Moyer has 26 days left before he will report for his next duty. He has 18 months left in his enlistment, which he made after leaving the Yocom Knitting mills.

His assignment in Viet Nam was to the 282th Aviation company, Air Mobile Light, of the 14th Aviation battalion.
